

Johnson Asks FBI Quiz on Charges Involving Baker

$25,000 Payoff for Kennedy Race Charged by Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked for an FBI investigation into charges by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that builder Matthew McCloskey paid a $25,000 kickback on the D.C. Stadium construction contract.

Williams said in a Senate speech Tuesday that $25,000 of the alleged $35,000 kickback was channeled into the 1960 Democratic campaign.

White House Press Secretary George Reedy told newsmen almost casually today that the President had asked the Justice Department to request the FBI to "look into the matter raised by Sen. Williams."

Reedy said the request was made by Johnson Tuesday.

Decision up to FBI

Reedy was asked if the investigation might involve questioning officials of the Democratic National Committee.

"It's entirely up to the FBI," Reedy said. "I'm not expert on investigative techniques."

The investigation by the FBI will be made to determine whether there had been any violation of federal law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders moved cautiously today in the wake of a demand for reopening the Bobby Baker case to investigate a charge of a $25,000 payoff earmarked for Kennedy-Johnson campaign funds in 1960.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he would take the matter up with the Senate Democratic policy committee "in the near future."

He declined further comment.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP leader, said there should be an investigation but cited a number of factors that he felt would prevent any early action.

Senators Want to Leave

"It certainly comes at an awkward time," Dirksen commented, noting that many senators want to get away to campaign.

Dirksen said he had conferred briefly with Mansfield and would talk with him again after the Democratic policy committee meets.

Asked for comment on the charge, White House press secretary said:

Senate Vote Due Today on Health Care

Passage Probable But Measure Would Face House Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate faces another showdown vote today on a politically explosive plan for Social Security health care for the aged — the third such test in four years.

The proposal is strongly backed by President Johnson, whose Senate lieutenants were making an all-out effort to round up the votes to put it over.

It is just as heavily opposed by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, who flew here from California to vote against it. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the outcome may be extremely close.

Defeated in 1960

In 1962, with President John F. Kennedy battling for the plan and the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., leading the fight against it, the vote was 52 to 48 to defeat it.

In 1960, Kennedy presented the proposal himself as a Senate member and the Democratic presidential nominee, but it was rejected 51 to 44.

Senate sponsors of the Social Security plan said in advance they were looking for victory by about two votes. They appear to have gained strength since the 1962 test because six new Democratic senators were elected later that year; these have been offset by only three new Republicans.

One important factor will be the number of Republicans who favor the Social Security approach. In 1962, five did. Dirksen said he thought four or five might vote for it this time.

Even if the proposal gets through the Senate as an amendment to a House-passed Social Security bill, it still faces highly dubious prospects when the measure goes back to the House.

Goldwater Back To Fight Johnson Medical Care Bill

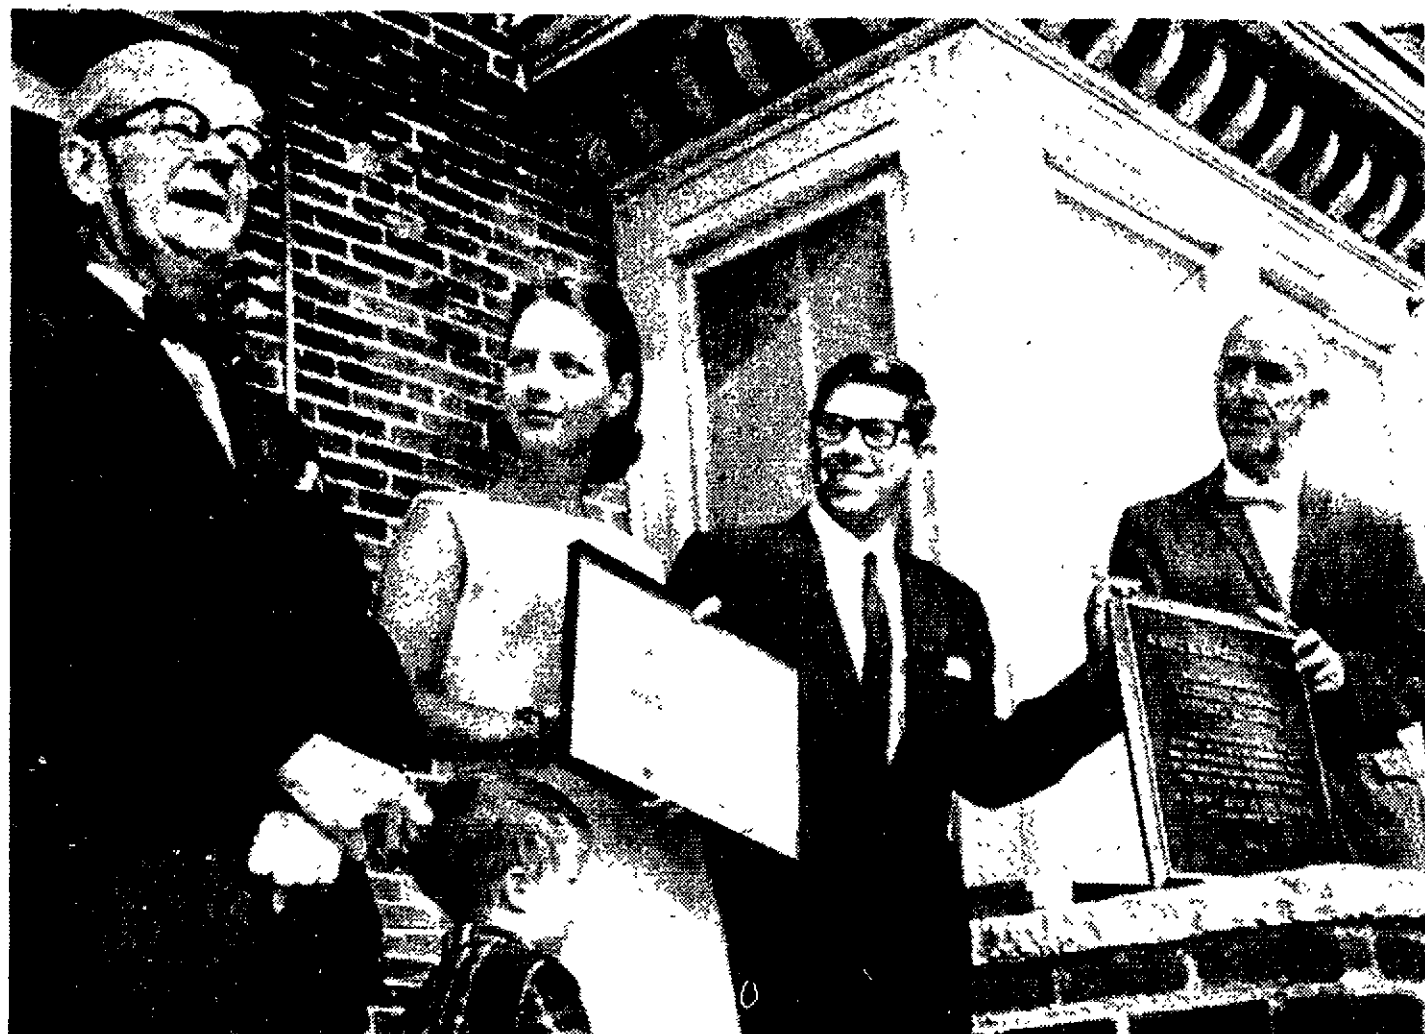

WASHINGTON (AP) — Answering the summons of Senate Republican leaders, Sen. Barry Goldwater came back to Washington early today ready to vote against a scaled down version of President Johnson's plan for medical care of the aged.

After a hectic day in Los Angeles and a 45-minute stop in Phoenix, the Republican nominee for the White House sped across the country in his chartered jet airliner to be on hand for the crucial vote.

"The vote is very equally divided," said the Arizona senator, an outspoken foe of the administration plan for health care financed under the Social Security System.

Goldwater interrupted what was to have been a stay at home in Phoenix after a telephone talk with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Backlash Not Clarified In Michigan's Primary

Opponent of Rights Law Loses Race

DETROIT (AP) — The potential of so-called white backlash remained clouded today as Detroit voters approved a "homeowners' rights" ordinance while a Detroit area congressional district rejected the only Northern Democrat who voted against the civil rights bill.

The developments shared Tuesday's Michigan primary election spotlight with an upset victory by Republican Elly Paterson, who became the first Michigan woman to ever win a major party U.S. Senate nomination.

Overshadowed was Republican Gov. George Romney's nearly 8-1 renomination margin over a more conservative GOP opponent.

Backlash, if any, apparently was a minor factor was not evident as Rep. John Dingell beat Rep. John Lesinski, the civil rights bill foe, in a district where reapportionment threw them together.

Reaction on Housing

But the homeowners' ordinance victory seemed a reaction against open housing sought by civil rights advocates. Its leading proponent, Thomas L. Poindexter, led candidates seeking City Council nominations.

Poindexter in November will face a Negro, Jackie Vaughn, whom he outpolled 2-to-1.

The role of backlash — reaction against Negro civil rights activity — is viewed as a major question in the 1964 presidential campaign.

With 4,851 of the state's 5,209 precincts reporting, the key statewide votes stood:

U.S. Senate — Mrs. Peterson 204,728, James O'Neill 179,621, Edward Meaney 142,146, unopposed Democratic incumbent U.S. Sen. Philip Hart 455,779.

Pilot Who Escaped Reds Flying Home

Details of Breakout in Laos Still to be Published

CLARK FIELD, Philippines (AP) — Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, a U.S. Navy jet pilot shot down by Lao Communist forces three months ago, was flying home today after escaping from Laos to neighboring Thailand.

Klusmann arrived here from Thailand about 4 p.m. An informed source said he boarded a U.S. Military Air Transport Service plane bound for the United States. His exact destination was not disclosed.

Details of the escape have not yet been made public.

Klusmann, 30, had reached the safety of an American base at Udorn, Thailand. There he received medical attention, food and clean clothing. The U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, Laos, announced he was being flown to the United States.

Family Happy

At their home in San Diego, Calif., Klusmann's wife, Sarah, said she was "absolutely elated" but not surprised by his escape. "What I said in the beginning of all this was that if anyone can get out, he can," she said. "He has been through the survival school that all Navy aviators go through."

The embassy said Klusmann appeared to be "in relatively good physical condition." The escape was first disclosed by the White House in Washington Tuesday afternoon.

Jarres in central Laos last June 6 when Pathet Lao gunfire brought him down. He was based on the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

He parachuted safely but wrenched a knee in landing. Klusmann waved off a rescue helicopter, as Pathet Lao ground forces were closing in. The pilot was last seen surrounded by Communist soldiers.

Last month, eight letters from Klusmann were forwarded to his wife by the Red Cross. The pilot did not say where he was being held, but that he was kept in a mud-walled hut, 12 by 20 feet, and its thatched roof leaked in the rain.

"They appear to want to keep me in good shape," Klusmann wrote. "But they don't want me to go anywhere. They have been reinforcing my 'accommodation' with barbed wire and I am well guarded by young lads."

Klusmann said his knee was treated by the Communists.

His presumed escape route would have taken him through dense jungle, and areas with mountains reaching to 9,000 feet.

Udorn, where Klusmann arrived Tuesday, is 40 miles south of the Laos-Thailand border and approximately 140 miles southwest of the Plain des Jarres.

Boy Rescued From Well in California

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — A 3-year-old asthmatic boy who fell 25 feet down an abandoned dry well was rescued Tuesday night, "scratched up and a little wild-eyed" after three hours.

A crowd of more than 100 cheered as Fremont policeman Duayne Watson, 26, pulled Jerry Bettencourt from the foot-wide, 90-foot deep well with two ropes.

The boy had been breathing with the aid of an oxygen tube lowered to the bit of rock where he was wedged. He was taken to Washington Township Hospital for 24-hour observation. He was said to be in good condition.

Pulled Out By Wrist

"He'd begin to cry a little while I was fishing for him and I'd talk to him," said Watson. "I got a nylon cord to him and jerked on it until I had it around his wrist."

With the young victim's help, a second rope was secured to his other wrist and Jerry was eased to the surface.

"He wasn't hurt," said Watson. "Just dirty and scratched up and a little wild-eyed and surprised."

Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary George Bettencourt, turned

Indonesia Opens Airborne Assault

Malaysian Spokesman Says Parachutist Slain, 3 Held

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Indonesia launched an airborne attack before dawn today, landing 30 paratroops into the center of the southernmost mainland State of Johore, the government charged.

A government spokesman said one battalion of soldiers and a police force attacked the paratroops, killing one and capturing at least three in the first fighting.

Coming two weeks after a small seaborne landing in Johore, the airborne operation indicated Indonesia intends to extend to the heartland of Malaysia the guerrilla attacks hitherto confined to Malaysia's distant Borneo states.

Robber Seeks $75,000 but Flees With $5

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Two housewives and their three children were held as hostages Tuesday in a $75,000 bank robbery plot that netted a lone gunman $5.

FBI agents and police from Dearborn Heights, a Detroit suburb, were still seeking the bandit today. He fled after a brief gun battle with Sgt. Virgil Degreace of Dearborn Heights police.

Police said the bandit held Monica Boczar, 37, and her 2-year-old twins, Janette and Jeffrey, as hostages for a harrowing 45 minutes while her husband, Bernard, 40, was dispatched to get $75,000 from the nearby Michigan Bank branch where he is manager.

Policeman Hurt

Boczar left for the bank just as Degreace arrived, helped Mrs. Boczar and her children to safety, and was hurt in a shootout with the holdup man.

Boczar, at work, was told by the bandit in a telephone call that Mrs. Boczar and the children were hostages and he must come home. Boczar called police and then went home. At his house, the bandit ordered Boczar to get $75,000 from the bank.

In a hectic series of events, Boczar left home for the bank moments before Degreace arrived.

4 Gunmen Seize $5,000 in Holdup Of Post Office

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four masked gunmen held up the post office in nearby Hales Corners Tuesday, escaping with about $5,600 in stamps and cash after binding the postmaster with mail straps and chaining three other employees.

Postmaster Joseph Kurylo and the others were dragged into the vault by the bandits, who wore handkerchief masks. Kurylo said he was able to free his legs and get to a phone to call police.

Kurylo said he was in his office talking on the telephone when a man came to the door, pointed a pistol and said, "Hang up."

The postmaster said, "I didn't give him an argument."

The gunmen entered the post office through a rear door about 5 p.m., nearly a half hour after it had closed to the public. The victims told Hales Corners Police Chief Harold Phelan that three of the men had guns in their hands when they entered. The fourth kept watch at the door.

Kurylo said two of the men held guns on the staff while another searched for stamps and cash. The postmaster said the robbery took about 20 minutes. The loot included $300 in cash.

Plastic Window Put in Blinded Eye May Restore Sight to Thousands

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — An ingenious new window soon will be placed in blinded human eyes in hopes of restoring sight permanently.

It is a transparent plastic cornea, the window of the eye, with a removable pane in the center. This tiny pane can be screwed out — like a fuse from its socket — to permit correction of any complications that might arise later, then put back in place. This gives hopes for lifelong restoration of sight.

May Help Thousands

If the artificial cornea proves as successful in humans as it has in rabbits and monkeys, it may restore sight to thousands of blind persons. Dr. William Stone Jr., an eye physician, said today.

One rabbit lived its entire long life of four years and three months with a plastic cornea securely implanted in its eye, he said.

Scarring or clouding of the cornea is a leading cause of blindness. Corneas borrowed from human eye banks can help only about 25 per cent of persons with damaged windows, he said.

Dr. Stone estimated 90,000 Americans are partially or completely blinded by opaque corneas, as well as hundreds of thousands in areas of the world, especially where trachoma and smallpox take heavy toll by affecting the cornea.

Dr. Stone, Dr. Hirotsugu Yasuda, chemist, and Miguel F. Refojo, doctor of science, described the plastic cornea to an American Chemical Society symposium on medical uses of plastics.

They have been working at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston. The team is moving to the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, where Dr. Stone plans the first implants into human eyes.

The plastic cornea is only one-third of an inch wide. It is disc-shaped, with a hollow nubbin or projection sticking up in the center. It is inserted, from the side, between two layers of the natural cornea.

A hole is punched through the clouded central part of the cornea so the nubbin pops up, through it.

Then the pane is screwed into the threaded nubbin. Light rays pass through the pane, then the lens of the eye, then onto the retina.

If the back, thin layer of the natural cornea clouds again, or other trouble develops, the pane can be removed for surgical repair, done with aid of a microscope.

If a cataract developed on the lens, it could be surgically treated through the hole. Dr. Stone said. The plastic cornea can be extended completely through the cornea if necessary.

The plastic cornea, tailor-fitted to the individual eye, has holes through which connective tissue of the real cornea can grow, anchoring the implant more securely. Essential fluids can pass through the holes.

President Signs Housing Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the $1,131,800,000 bill to continue and expand various housing programs and said it would benefit all America.

Dozens of members of Congress crowded into the room for the ceremony.

Johnson said that there was a commitment to assure every American an opportunity live in a decent home and a safe and decent neighborhood.

He called the legislation "a milestone to assure that commitment."

West Powers Described as 'Irresolute'

Conditions Called Parallel to Those Prevailing in 1939

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the campaign speakers on both sides will miss the significance of it, but conditions today in many respects parallel those which prevailed before the outbreak of World War II—just 25 years ago this week. West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, in a little-noticed address at Bonn on Monday, frankly described the weakness and irresoluteness of the western powers prior to September 1939, and he put his finger on the very thing that usually encourages a dictatorship to take chances on war. He said:

"There is complete agreement that Hitler bears the main guilt for the second world war. But this verdict of guilty against the Hitler regime cannot change the fact that also other governments faltered, that after the western powers accepted his acts of force Hitler built up illusions about the defensive will of those democratic states, and that Soviet Communism—which until then had been pilloried—encouraged and, indeed, until well into 1941 even supported Hitler's further aggressions."

The politicians in power in Great Britain and France, as well as in the United States, misled the voters. They kept telling the people that wars could be prevented by continuous concessions and by the negotiation of treaties which, as it turned out, were not worth the paper on which they were written.

Hitler Marched

Although Hitler had marched into the Rhineland in 1936 without any military obstruction in his path and subsequently had committed act after act of aggression, the western powers allowed their commercial interests to continue to sell him arms and war materials almost to the very month before the outbreak of World War II. But, coincidentally, the buildup of an adequate military apparatus in western Europe and in this country was neglected. This encouraged Hitler to believe that the United States would never again enter a war in Europe or, if it did, its help would not come in time to be decisive.

Worst of all, the western powers saw Russia sign a so-called "non-aggression" pact with Hitler on August 23, 1939. The very next week, Russia was involved in the war on Hitler's side. This made unnecessary any military effort by Hitler against Russia at that time. The Nazi forces were thus free to invade Belgium and France, which were completely subjugated by the summer of 1940.

Roosevelt Campaign

Even in the face of this disastrous turn of events, President Roosevelt campaigned in the summer and autumn of 1940 on a promise to keep out of the war. A few months later—June 1941—Hitler felt free to turn against his ally, Russia, and he secretly encouraged Japan to harass America. The Japanese armies had by that time conquered much of southeast Asia and were ready to turn their attention to the United States. The attack on Pearl Harbor in December 1941 was a planned climax by the Japanese - Nazi axis to frustrate any American military effort in Europe. This didn't succeed because the United States wisely decided to give its main attention first to the war in Europe, while holding off on any truly major offensive again Japan itself until after the surrender of Hitler's armies in May 1945.

But where was the "defensive will" of the western powers, including the United States, in the crucial 1930's? The appeasement in September 1938 at Munich by the Chamberlain government of Britain was hailed at the time as perhaps a good sign. But within six months Hitler grabbed Czechoslovakia, and it was clear that the Nazi leopard hadn't changed his spots. The west nevertheless continued "to do business with Hitler." America's fumbling policies in the 1930's—the lack of what Chancellor Erhard has so fittingly described as a "defensive will"—can today, if repeated, mislead the Communist militarists into believing that they can conquer most of Europe with their land forces before the United States has a chance to use any nuclear weapons—if then. This was also the analogous concept of the Nazi militarists 25 years ago.

Today, in a presidential campaign, the impression is again being conveyed that the Communist Party in Russia can be trusted to "negotiate" peace treaties and "non-aggression" pacts. The record shows the West has acquiesced in the building of the Berlin Wall and the continued occupation of East Germany in plain violation of agreements signed with Russia before the conclusion of World War II.

It is the lack of a "defensive will" to stand up for established principles of international law and written agreements which is responsible for the weakness and disarray of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today, as Europe and America once more hesitate to build a truly powerful military alliance. Will history repeat itself?

John DiBella Dies at Fond du Lac Hospital

Noted Italian Cheese Producer's Friends Included Identified Top Mafia Leader

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
FOND DU LAC — A heart attack has taken the life of John V. DiBella, well known Italian cheese producer whose acquaintances included one of the top Mafia leaders in the United States.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. from St. Mary's Catholic Church. The body will then be shipped to Italy for burial.

The 74-year-old DiBella, a native of Italy and resident of the Hotel Retlaw since 1943, died at St. Agnes Hospital Tuesday.

At the time of his death, DiBella was president of the Grande Cheese Co. which has many holdings in Wisconsin and other parts of the country.

Crime Follower
In 1963, Gov. John Reynolds named Fond du Lac County as one of three areas in the state where organized crime had a foothold. He singled out Grande Cheese Co., claiming four of its former employees had been victims of gangland slayings in Chicago.

DiBella, who traveled extensively in this country and made periodic trips abroad, reportedly had been in failing health in recent weeks.

On July 2 he was rushed to St. Agnes Hospital in the Fond du Lac County ambulance shortly after 4 p.m. when the 1964 model car he was driving went out of control and struck a large utility pole.

Authorities said it was raining at the time and the car went into a spin on the wet pavement as DiBella was negotiating a curve. The extent of DiBella's injuries was not disclosed.

DiBella had business ties with and was a close friend of Jo-

DiBella would never comment publicly on his association with Bonnano, who at one time was a cheese salesman in this area. Bonnano's wife, Fay, also held stock in Grande Cheese Co. at one time.

Bonnano was a delegate to the underworld convention at Apalachin, N. Y., in 1957. DiBella also had business ties with Atty. Frank DeSimone of Downey, Calif., also a delegate to the New York syndicate summit.

Broke Silence
When Gov. Reynolds pointed an accusing finger at Grande Cheese Co. last year, DiBella broke his long silence and said he had always run a respectable business operation and dared authorities to prove otherwise, which they never did.

DiBella also told county and local authorities that his friends were none of their business.

In a dramatic move, DiBella silenced critics by appearing at the Safety Building and presenting company books before authorities. He was accompanied by a Milwaukee attorney.

While not active in community affairs, DiBella had close friends here and was well thought of by hotel employees and others he befriended over the years.

Visited Him
Up until the past two years, Bonnano and others from various parts of the country visited him occasionally in his hotel suite.

Local police indicated DiBella was a "model citizen". They said he had never been arrested locally for any kind of an offense. However, state and national investigative agencies kept a close tab on DiBella's visitors.

When he came to Fond du Lac 21 years ago, DiBella was a salesman for Grande Cheese Co. In 1949 he was made a director and later president. Before World War II he was in a food importing and exporting business with a brother in Brooklyn.

In 1960 DiBella also was known to be president of cheese firms at Lomira (Dodge County); Fairwater (Fond du Lac County); and Kohlsville (Washington County).

DiBella was born June 24, 1890 at Montelepre, Italy. He was a bachelor.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Providence (Rose) Candela, Lomira, and Mrs. Ferasina Gaglio, Italy; three brothers, Vincent, Newark, N. J.; Salvatore and Giuseppe, both of Italy.

Chamber Gets $100,000 for Building Fund

$125,000 Needed for Proposed One-Story Structure 'On Stilts'

Some $100,000 of the $125,000 needed to erect the Chamber of Commerce building on the northeast corner of Washington and Oneida streets has been raised, Kenneth Corbett, Chamber secretary, told a meeting of the Retail Division of the Chamber this morning.

Fund-raising began officially Tuesday evening. Corbett said construction will not begin until the entire amount is raised. He said he hopes to have all the money by the end of the month.

The building will have one floor, nine feet above the pavement, with the area under it used as a mall. The "on-stilts" design of the building will give it stature among the tall buildings surrounding it and will permit the use of greenery without sacrificing valuable space, according to Robert Sauter of Sauter-Seaborne Architects.

Access to a circular staircase in the center of the mall will be from all four sides — from Washington and Oneida streets and from the parking lot.

The staircase, to be replaced by an elevator when funds are available, will lead to the receptionist's desk and manager's office approximately in the center of the floor. Surrounding this will be specialized offices.

Study of a new building has been underway by the Chamber since 1957. The Chamber purchased the land from the Greyhound Bus Co. for $82,000, three years ago. Since then committees and boards have been working on design and fund-raising plans.

New Chief Named for State Tax Department

MADISON (AP)—Kenneth E. Quindry, an associate professor of economics at Western Kentucky State College, was named Tuesday to head the research division of the Wisconsin Department of Taxation.

The post, which pays $11,688 a year, has been vacant since 1959.

Footnote Filed With Waupaca Hopeful's Campaign Expenses

WAUPACA — State Assemblyman Richard E. Peterson, who is not seeking re-election but instead the Waupaca County District Attorney post, has filed his expenses to date in the September primary.

Expenses total $242.50 with $22.50 still owing, a report filed with the state secretary of state's office shows.

A footnote has been added to the expense sheet. It reads: "U.S. Army Quartermaster R. Fort Lewis, Wash. — one pair of U.S. Army Oxford purchased while at Fort Lewis and worn out knocking on doors."

Peterson served with the 32nd Division Wisconsin National Guard in 1961 during the Berlin crisis.

New Parking Commission Maps Projects for Future

Inspection Made of Facilities

Appleton's new parking commission made a trip Tuesday night and inspected more than $2 million worth of municipal parking facilities.

The commission, authorized by recent common council ordinance, held an organization meeting at the Conway Hotel.

Members of the commission include Mayor Clarence Mitchell, chairman; Willard Johnson, vice chairman; Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) and Robert Stumpf (9th), and W. A. Close.

Johnson and Close, Appleton businessmen, are the appointed citizen members.

Advisory Capacity City Planner-traffic engineer Walter Rasmussen was appointed commission secretary. Serving in advisory capacity to the group are Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and Finance Director Donald Hassler.

Lester Van Roy, parking meter superintendent, and Donald Heinrich, staff member, also attended the meeting.

The commission intends to request a legal opinion from City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich defining the policy cut-off line between it and the council's public safety committee.

Members indicated they will meet twice a month to tackle some of the problems connected with operating the city's parking program.

Meter, Lot Revenues The commission heard a report from Hassler that gross revenue from lots and meters in 1964 should pass the $170,000 mark. He also indicated all the municipal parking lots and equipment have a value of well over $2 million.

A tour was made of the East and West ramps, plus the city's other off-street parking facilities which provide parking for more than 2,000 vehicles in the downtown area.

Among the matters to be discussed at future commission meetings, and recommendations forwarded to the council, are:

—Whether to abolish the city's policy of renting out parking hoods. There has been general criticism the policy has been abused.

—Weigh the merits of parallel parking, not only on College Avenue, but also side streets off the central business district.

See Little Need for Teacher Bargaining

Fine School Board Relations, Education Association Says

The Appleton Education Association sees "little need" to seek recognition as the sole bargaining agent for Appleton public school teachers, according to its newsletter distributed to teachers during the orientation program Tuesday.

A recent state law says municipal employees, including teachers, are entitled to certain collective bargaining rights. Some teacher groups in Wisconsin cities, including Milwaukee and West Allis, have gained recognition by their boards of education as the sole bargaining agent for their teachers.

"Results in these cities have been quite favorable so far. Such a situation has not always been a desirable thing to seek," the AEA newsletter says.

Fine Relations "We in Appleton have seen little need to seek such a bargaining position due to the fine past relations we have had with our board," it says.

"It should be noted that this was legislation that was asked for by teachers," the newsletter comments, and a bill is now in committee to rescind the present law.

Promotion of 14-Year-Man Recommended

Traffic Police Unit Supports Captain's Request to County

The traffic police committee of the Outagamie County Board has prepared a resolution asking the board to approve the promotion of a patrolman to sergeant on the traffic patrol on the recommendation of Capt. Ronald Decker.

During the committee's meeting Tuesday, the five members agreed to submit the resolution because no agreement was reached in a recent joint meeting with the civil service and salary committee on who should make the appointment.

The civil service and salary committee contends the appointment should be made on the basis of who scored the highest mark on a recent test. The traffic police committee says the appointment should be based on the recommendation of superiors in the traffic police department and on experience.

The civil service committee wants a man with two years' experience appointed to the post, while the traffic police committee favors a man with 14 years' experience.

The traffic police committee withheld passing the resolution until after the meeting with the civil service committee.

The traffic patrol vacancy was caused by the recent death of Sgt. George Else.

Youth Gets Jail Term For Fishing Violations

WAUPACA—Fishing without a valid license and using another person's license has landed a Hales Corner youth in Waupaca County jail.

Paul R. Boldt, 20, was arrested by conservation wardens while fishing from a dock at the Chain O'Lakes.

Municipal Justice George Whalen Tuesday fined Boldt $100 for using another person's license and $25 for not having a valid fishing license. Boldt was unable to pay the fines and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Search for Son of Man Who Died Tuesday

Friends and the family of an 87-year-old man who died Tuesday night in New London Community Hospital are trying to locate the deceased man's missing son.

Herman Flieth, 87, had been asking the whereabouts of his son Raymond (Ray), about 55, for several months before he died.

Friends said the last they knew about the younger Flieth's location was about nine months ago when he was seen in Neenah. Before that he had been employed for about 20 years as a night attendant at the Outagamie County Hospital.

Rav Flieth is described as about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds, having graying hair and a ruddy complexion. Acquaintances said he sometimes wears a mustache.

The body of the father has been taken to the Wichmann Funeral Home in Appleton.

UW Center to Offer Courses Designed for Businessmen

Commerce Instructors to Teach Sessions at Green Bay School

Eight non-credit courses of interest to business and manufacturing personnel in northeastern Wisconsin will be offered at the University of Wisconsin Green Bay Center this year by the UW commerce department.

C. S. Borsuk, professor of commerce at the Green Bay Center, will be local coordinator. Enthusiastic response to a similar program last year was responsible for the enlargement of this year's program, Borsuk said.

"Accounting for Non-Accountants" will begin Sept. 15 and continue weekly for eight two-hour sessions. The course is designed to give a basic understanding of accounting documents and how to analyze and interpret them to a person who has had no formal training in accounting. Irving Christiansen, professor of commerce at the UW Fox Valley Center, will be the instructor.

"Operations Research for Management" will meet for eight two-hour sessions, beginning Sept. 21. The course will provide a basic knowledge of modern management tools and their varied application.

A special course for owners and managers of small manufacturing, retail or service businesses, "Modern Management of the Small Business," will meet for seven two-hour sessions, beginning Sept. 30. The course will review methods of management to see if they need updating and provide practical information on meeting business problems.

An eight-session "Real Estate Seminar" will study challenges facing the real estate business. The course is designed to assist the real estate man to be more effective not only as a middleman in real estate transactions but also as an investment counselor and expert in land economy.

One-Day Institute A one-day institute on "How the Manufacturing Manager Can Control Project Leads" will be held Oct. 21 for supervisory personnel of manufacturing firms of northeastern Wisconsin.

A three-session institute on "Leadership Methods for Foremen and Supervisors" will be held Oct. 22 and 29 and Nov. 5.

A special institute on "Concepts and Practices of Motivation for Manufacturing Managers" will be held Feb. 20, and another three-meeting institute on "Supervisory Skills for Foremen and Supervisors" will be offered Jan. 19 and 26 and Feb. 2.

Information on the courses may be obtained from Borsuk at the Green Bay center.

Guidance, Counseling The course will meet at 7 p.m. Thursdays at the Fox Valley Center and Ripon High School, beginning Sept. 17, and at 7 p.m. Wednesdays at the Green Bay Center, beginning Sept. 16.

A course in "Introduction to Guidance and Counseling" will be given at the Fox Valley Center at 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning Sept. 16. Lawrence P. Blum, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee professor of education, will be the instructor.

Paul Lustig will teach a course on "The Exceptional Child" at the Green Bay Center at 7 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning Sept. 16.

Registration and collection of fees will be conducted at the first class meetings. Further information is available from Ronald L. Gray, assistant to the director at the Fox Valley Center.

Verne Imhoff, Fox Valley Center director, said there is a possibility one or two more education courses will be offered this fall.

Camp Wawbeek in Final Session With Enrollment Cut to 36

With the summer season nearing its end, Camp Wawbeek opened its final period Aug. 24 with a reduced enrollment of 36. Colleges claim many of the counselors now, and the reduced staff matches the camper drop-off. Those adults who do come for this last session find all the activities operating for them, however.

Among those attending are John Gruber, 812 Lawe St., Kaukauna; Ken Heindel, 124 Brother St., Kaukauna; Betty Krueger, 1613 S. Jefferson St., Appleton; and Evelyn Siebers, 406½ Desnoyer St., Kaukauna.

Waupaca Sheriff Keeping Close Watch on NFO; Chilton Area Quiet

Stock Prices Fall Despite Withholding

Waupaca County law enforcement officials today are keeping a close watch on National Farmer Organization (NFO) activities after an outbreak last week.

In Calumet County NFO members are maintaining a peaceful boycott of a terminal stock station while farmers continue to sell stock and prices fall.

Waupaca Sheriff Loran Frazier, in a statement, clarified action taken Tuesday by his department during an outbreak when a livestock trucker's vehicle was detained at a farm in the Town of Dupont.

The sheriff's office will maintain peace and take action if any person or persons complain of being detained while shipping or loading any livestock, he said.

Written Opinion Frazier said he conferred with Dist. Atty. Gerald Anderson Aug. 26 before he dispatched men to the Lawrence Deter farm where a truck was being held on the property as it attempted to load stock.

Anderson said anyone who barricades a trucker, even on private property, is guilty of disorderly conduct. If a trucker is prevented from traveling on the public highways, there are a number of statutes which apply, he said in a written opinion.

Cattle receipts at the Armour and Co. receiving station, Chilton, Tuesday totaled more than all of last week, an Armour representative said.

Livestock prices in general are lower, he said. Cattle are about 50 cents lower, calves $1 to $2 down and bull prices are $2 lower.

Members of Calumet County NFO have been standing guard at the entrance of the station, four miles south of Chilton on State 57, but trucks have not been stopped.

Clyde Hansen, Clerk in the U. S. Post Office in Appleton, looks over some of the 11 new "Mailsters" the post office plans to put in operation this week. Appleton Faculty Members Told Of Changes in Administration

New Superintendent Introduces School Principals, Coordinators

Administrative changes in Appleton public schools were presented Tuesday to the teaching staff during the opening orientation session in Madison Junior High School.

New Supl. of Schools William Spears, who has replaced Royce E. Kurtz, made his first formal address to the teachers. Spears, previously assistant superintendent and director of instruction, took office during August after Kurtz left to become an educational consultant to an Indiana architectural firm.

Spears also introduced several new administrators and others whose responsibilities have been expanded.

Three Major Posts Three major administrative posts were filled during the summer. William Berner became Appleton High School principal, replacing Herbert H. Helbie; Orlyn A. Ziemann was appointed the system's first secondary curriculum coordinator, and Kenneth Johnston was named to replace Ziemann as principal of Wilson Junior High School.

Spears told the staff Rolland Nock, principal of Morgan School, is to be coordinator of the total special education program. In addition to the bulk of the program at Morgan, Nock will supervise the junior high grade, Spears said. These are new job threshold program and a special education class to be added this fall at Jefferson School.

James Cowan, psychometrist-psychologist, will be coordinator of the child service center, Spears said. The center was organized last year in a combination of the psychometric, psychological and social work services of the school system.

Supervisor of Music Frank Comella, former Appleton High School band director, will be the public schools' first supervisor of music. He will continue teaching half-time in addition to coordinating the music program from kindergarten through 12th grade. The position eventually will become full time.

The work of two other resource persons will be expanded to include coordination from kindergarten through 12th grade, Spears said. These are Frances Brooks, who was elementary librarian, and William Pickett, who was elementary physical education coordinator.

The new administrators and coordinators, other principals and 92 new full-time and part-time teachers were introduced at the orientation meeting.

Urges Study of Sanitorium as Home Addition

Sunnyview Trustees Say It Could be Site For Chronically Ill

OSHKOSH — Another "long-hard-look" at the possibility of using part of Sunnyview Sanatorium as an addition to the Pleasant Acres facilities was suggested Tuesday by Mrs. Virginia Nolan, Winnebago County Board's institution committee chairman.

At a meeting of the committee with Pleasant Acres Supt. William Vogel, Mrs. Nolan said Sunnyview has 33 vacant beds in the children's wing and the Sunnyview trustees have suggested this could be used as a center for the chronically ill.

How much laboratory work and medical work is now carried on at Pleasant Acres and how much is planned for the new home, Mrs. Nolan asked of Vogel. The superintendent said almost all of the laboratory work is now done at Mercy Hospital and that at present it is not a great cost factor but could become one in the future.

He said a complete laboratory to meet minimum standards set by the state will be included in the new Pleasant Acres home.

Waiting List
Mrs. Nolan also wanted to know if Sunnyview was available would it be used "The demand is here," Vogel said. There are eight on the waiting list to get into Sunnyview and everyone of them another dozen have been turned down, he added.

He said that when the new Pleasant Acres is completed the additional 50 beds will only relieve some of the pressure of the county hospital. There are probably 50 patients at the hospital who really belong in Pleasant Acres, he added.

Chronically Ill
If it's a question of taking care of the chronically ill, Vogel said, we are already doing his at Pleasant Acres. "You're in chronic care whether you know it or not," he added.

Mrs. Nolan said her concern was the possibility of getting into the care of chronically ill other than aged persons. Vogel said his main concern was that the cost at Pleasant Acres was $52 per week while at Sunnyview the cost is about $135 per week. There might be justification for moving patients now maintained by the county to a private hospital, he said.

The county has traditionally taken care of its aged, Mrs. Nolan said, but it would be dangerous to get into something else.

Huge Pep Rally Set

Merchants Promote Stadium Dedication

MENASHA — As the Calder Field dedication program moved within 10 days of reality today, member merchants of the Menasha Business Associates announced plans for an all-out effort to help make the event a roaring success.

MBA will help promote the long-awaited event with a "Dedication Days" program Sept. 11 and 12. The slogan for the program is "Let's Fill Calder Field on Dedication Day."

Special events will include a huge evening pep rally on the "square" in downtown Menasha Sept. 11, followed by a Dedication Day dance at the Memorial Building.

Pep Rally
The Friday night pep rally will get underway at 7:30 p.m. with bands and cheerleaders from both Menasha and St. Mary High Schools participating. High school students are urged to jam the "square" for the rally. At 8:30 p.m. the scene will shift to the Memorial Building for the Dedication Day dance. Tickets for the dance can be obtained from MBA merchants. Admission will be 15 cents with a ticket, or 30 cents without.

In addition, the participating merchants are selling dedication booster buttons and are giving away a limited supply of auto antenna pennants promoting the dedication program. Window banners proclaiming "Dedication Days" went up today in merchants' windows.

The business group will present Mrs. Nathan Calder and Mrs. George Banta Jr. with floral bouquets at the dedication ceremonies Sept. 12.

A Green Bay Packer autographed football will also be awarded during the half-time program.

Ceremonies

The stadium dedication will include other ceremonies, including dedication of the flagpole and formal presentation of the field to the City of Menasha. The Menasha Board of Education will assume responsibility for maintenance and management of the field.

The stadium will be dedicated to Nathan Calder, who coached Menasha High School football teams for 25 years. Land for the field was donated by the Banta Foundation, which also contributed funds for construction. George Banta Jr. has been primarily responsible for seeing the project grow from a dream in 1947 to reality.

Wallace is expected to speak on states rights and opposition to the Civil Rights Bill.

Kept Audience Enthralled

Myron Floren, Talented Band Spark Winnebago Fair Stage Program

BY MARK OLIVA

OSHKOSH — Stellar accordion playing by Myron Floren of Lawrence Welk's TV Orchestra and the talented musicianship of a young but bright band, The Casuals, turned an otherwise ho-hum Winnebago County fair program into a swinging show Tuesday night.

Floren, who also acted as master of ceremonies, kept the audience totally enthralled every second he was on stage, revealing not only the multitude of talents he displays weekly on "TV," but also introducing a less familiar side, Myron Floren, the right personality.

Television has left viewers with the impression Floren is a quiet fellow. Not so! Not only did Floren always have the right comment at the right time and an outstanding musical act, his shining commentary held the audience's interest through a boring opening half hour.

He stepped out with his accordion to the greatest round of applause given during the evening. Floren opened with "Beer Barrel Polka" and "Boogie Woogie."

Popular Numbers
The audience interrupted his next two numbers, "Lady of Spain," an accordion classic, and "Bubbles in the Wine," Welk's theme, with rounds of applause. Then on "Clarinet Polka" and Welk's first million-seller, "Calcutta." The audience accompanied Floren's accordion solos with hand-clapping and foot-stomping.

Highlight of Floren's appearance came when he walked from the stage up into the grandstand and asked the audience to join in on a few choruses of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

He closed his appearance with "Roll Out the Barrel" and "Tiger Rag."

The Casuals, who bill themselves as America's number one show band, proved themselves well worth the title. They followed Floren with a brief "please everybody" performance that achieved its purpose.

The group opened with Al Hirt's "Java," and with eyes closed, one could hardly tell the trumpeter from "the beard." Next, the Casuals played to the younger part of the audience with a swinging rock and roll rendition of "Let's Twist," followed by a comedy styling of "What Kind of Fool Am I?" and another rock tune to close, "C'Mon Everbody."

Brenda Lee, one of the top-billed acts, thrilled most of the teen-agers in the crowd, but left many of the adults staring at the bright lights of the midway in boredom. The audience was largely adult.

Miss Lee's nasal, country-style moans and groans were ground out in a key that often seemed different from the band's. Whether this was intentional was indeterminate.

Much of her music was in rapid-beat, pounding rock and roll style, and clearly aimed at a select, younger segment of the audience.

The only justification for entering the grandstand for the first half-hour of the program was assurance of a seat. One of the acts in this part of the show made the comment, "You ain't seen nothing yet." No one in the audience made any attempt to disagree.

Gov. John Reynolds Conducted a campaign tour in Winnebago County Tuesday in his drive for the Democratic nomination for governor in the Sept. 8 primary. Above he receives best wishes from Dr. Ralph Norem, left, member of the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh faculty and a county candidate on the Democratic ticket, at a breakfast in Winnebago. In the background is Quinn Rasmussen, Democratic candidate for sheriff. (Post-Crescent Photo) know, if we farmers band together this thing can be done. There's no reason why we shouldn't be able to receive a fair price for our products at the market place, as every other businessman does."

Vollmer pleaded with the group to keep livestock at home and not be misled by reports given on organized selling days. He explained that these days were previously set aside to flood the market and break the morale of the farmer.

Another meeting will be at Pele and Louie's Hall, at 8:30 p.m. Saturday followed by a corn roast.

Sheriff Frazier said he received a telegram from Gov. John Reynolds instructing him to use all means at his disposal to protect lives and property of citizens endangered in the withholding action. Frazier was told to request assistance of law enforcement officials in other municipalities and counties and the State Highway Patrol.

Representatives of the firm many county traffic patrolmen have been accompanied by deputies on duty. Other deputies are on standby.

Power Firm Worker Retires After 41 Years

Harold H. Brown, Consultant, Began Career in 1921

Harold H. Brown, engineering consultant with Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., has retired after more than 41 years in the electric utility industry.

Brown began his career in 1921 when he worked on the staff of Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, a world famous research scientist. In 1923 Brown started with the power company as an electrical engineer. He became a senior engineer in 1935 and in 1948 was named chief electrical engineer. In 1963 he was appointed engineering consultant.

During his career Brown belonged to numerous professional and honorary engineering societies and served as an officer in many of them. In 1950 he received a special citation from the University of Wisconsin in recognition of "unusual and outstanding contributions in the field of engineering."

Technical papers written by Brown have been presented to engineering societies throughout the country and have appeared in technical journals.

His name has been listed in Who's Who in Engineering, Who's Who in Wisconsin, Who's Who in the Midwest, Who's Who in Commerce and Industry, International Who's Who and the International Blue Book.

Active in civic, fraternal and church activities, Brown retired in 1962 after 38 years of active participation in Boy Scouting. During that time 53 boys under his direction received Eagle badges. Both of his sons became Eagle Scouts. The Browns live at 1325 S. Mason St., Appleton.

Woman Pleads Guilty to Two Counts of Forgery

Mrs. Jo Ann Stickney, 32, 422 1/2 W. College Ave., pleaded guilty to two charges of forgery today when she appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

She was charged with the two counts on June 26 by Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer. A jury trial was scheduled for today and Schaefer had brought in 12 witnesses, including a handwriting expert from Madison, but Mrs. Stickney changed her plea to guilty.

She will be sentenced by Judge Gustave Keller Friday. One charge involved cashing a $20 forged check in an Appleton bank. The other was for opening a charge account in an Appleton department store in someone else's name and then charging purchases to the account.

Bond of $3,500 originally had been set by Judge Keller, but he later reduced the amount to $2,000.

CD Director Outlines Warning Plan

Lee Penny, Outagamie County-Appleton civil defense director, Tuesday outlined a plan he has prepared for the coordination of all radio systems in the county in the event of an emergency.

Reporting to a special communications committee composed of heads of law enforcement agencies and fire departments in the county, Penny said he wants to have the power to alert officials and hospitals with a means other than just the civil defense siren system.

He said communications should be available to him via radio in the event of a power failure.

Penny also said the radio system would be more economical than relying on power lines.

Hornung Involved In Legal Hassle Over 1962 Taxes

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Pro football star Paul Hornung and the federal tax men are having a legal argument over his 1962 earnings, according to the Louisville Times.

The newspaper, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, reported the government contends the Green Bay Packer halfback owes an extra $3,163 on his 1962 earnings, estimated at $51,513. Hornung disagrees, claiming he earned only $46,682 that year.

The government says Hornung failed to report as income a $3,331 automobile he received in 1962, the free use of a 1962 auto, a $400 fur coat given to his mother, and $500 in travel expenses.

Hornung insists the car was a gift and that the other items are not taxable as income.

He paid $24,787 in federal taxes in 1962 but the government says he should have paid $27,951.

Unable to agree, Hornung and the tax men have taken the case to the Federal Tax Court.

Mitchell May Meet With Arlan President

Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell flew to New York City today to attend the National Muscular Dystrophy convention.

Mitchell said he would attempt to meet with Herbert Palestine, president of Arlan's, Inc., to discuss the firm's plans for building a department store here.

The mayor will return Monday.

Expect Heating Plant Plans Sept. 21 for Home, Hospital

OSHKOSH — Preliminary plans for the new heating plant for Pleasant Acres Home and the Winnebago County Hospital will probably be presented to the Board of Trustees at a meeting Sept. 21 between the trustees and Leonard Shober of the Green Bay, architectural firm of Berners, Shober and Kulp.

William Vogel, superintendent of the institutions, told the Winnebago County Board's Institutions Committee Tuesday that preliminary groundwork for the new heating plant was laid at the last meeting between Shober and the trustees. The firm also will be designing the New Pleasant Acres home.

Vogel said Shober roughly estimated the new heating plant would cost about $140,000 but that a more definite cost estimate could not be made until the plans are completed.

The trustees have $100,000 in a sinking fund for replacement of the old heating plant. The county has been placing $20,000 each year into this fund for the —Changes in the present 25-stall Walnut Street parking lot which is getting little use.

There is presently angle parking on these streets.

General Review

—Make a general review of all parking rates in the city.

—Decide whether city employees should pay or have free parking in the city hall parking lot.

During the tour, it was explained another level can be added to the East Ramp which would add 210 more stalls, and an addition to the West Ramp would net 130 additional spaces. This is for long-range needs.

Co-Author Ordinance

Mayor Mitchell thanked members for accepting their non-paying appointments to the commission, explaining that the parking program in Appleton was "big business and a challenge."

Tews and Stumpf, the latter chairman of the public safety committee, co-authored the ordinance calling for creation of a commission. Parking revenues will be kept in a separate fund. "We needed this commission to take politics out of parking," Tews commented. He recalled the mayor asked for a commission two years ago.

Appleton Will Attempt to Buy More School Land

An attempt will be made by the board of public works to purchase an additional 10 to 15 acres of land for the proposed Appleton East High School.

The school board indicated recently it could use more land. Mayor Clarence Mitchell and Public Works Director Robert W. Bues were instructed by the board Tuesday to start negotiations with a property owner.

The board decided to sell the Triangle school property and building (junction of State 76 and U.S. 10) to the highest bidder.

City Clerk Elden Broehm will advertise for bids, the opening to be Oct. 6.

Trade Shows Becoming Major Marketing Tool

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the more sedate forms of show business is becoming a major marketing tool of industry. It is the trade show. Increasingly the accent is on the instant sell. And the more complicated and competitive the U.S. economy becomes, the more are business firms, large and small, turning to the trade show as a prime way to introduce new products that technology across the nation, with more than $50,000 firms displaying their wares, old and new. Dun & Bradstreet estimates the shows will cost a record $3 billion. An increasing number of products are being sold, or contracted for, right on the floor of the exhibitions by purchasing agents who have taken this way of seeing all, or most of, the competitive products under one roof. This year's National Motor Boat Show in New York reported $40 million in sales; officials of the International Automobile Show in New York said sales came to $80 million. Rapid Expansion Arthur Smadbeck, president of the New York Coliseum where these shows were held, says the three reasons for the rapid postwar expansion of the trade show are increasing complexity of technology, the growth of a large mass leisure market and the spawning of new businesses. Dictaphone Corp. officials say their company participates in from 80 to 100 shows each year, with the exhibits stressing new products. Xerox is another corporation favoring trade shows, such as the Business Equipment Manufacturers Association Show at the Coliseum, for introducing new products. Their salesmen say the shows have the big advantage of appealing to sophisticated audiences. Kordite Corp., now subsidiary of Socony Mobil, launched its business shortly after the war by presenting its vinyl-covered sisal rope for clotheslines at the housewares show in Atlantic City, N.J. German Firm The show manager for the Institute of Electronic Engineers says that a West German firm broke into the American market by exhibiting its amplifiers and audio equipment at the show. It was able to line up seven distributors in the United States. The International Exposition Company has a plastic card imprinter device to help exhibitors at the Exposition of Chemical Industries and the Heating and Air Conditioning Exposition identify visitors. The device allows each firm to keep a record of interested prospects. Computer tabulations of show attendance this year are giving exhibitors statistical summaries of attendance, with visitors classified by industry, type of firm, and job title. Show managers used to take up to five weeks to furnish this breakdown. With the new electronic equipment of the job can now be done within 24 hours.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

IT'S ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO CHANGE SOME PEOPLE! TRUE □ FALSE □

False. It is quite easy to change almost everyone. We have trouble only when we try to change them in some particular way. If a person has strong feelings and prejudices, it is usually easy to change them in the direction in which they want to go anyway. Changes become difficult only when we seek to reverse this direction. But even this may not be too difficult if you convince him into believing that you are really leading him in the direction that he desired.

Does religion support superstition? Yes — No —

No, according to the eminent authority Sigmund Freud. Although he felt that apparently all religions were delusions, he also felt that the more highly developed forms represented tremendous gains over more primitive forms. While much superstition persists among religious people, it is like sin — something that religion is trying to get rid of. Strictly speaking, religion is the great enemy of superstition.

Women generally excuse emotional instability on the job. True — False —

False. They overwhelmingly deplore it. One recent study of working women reports, "Emotional instability on the job was considered almost unanimously as undesirable and intolerable." "Emotional instability can create hell in any business" was the strongest statement. Close to it in impressiveness were the phrases: "It can be disastrous," "It is intolerable," "Is responsible for accidents," and "Hinders the quality of work." Wouldn't men say pretty much the same thing about emotional instability on the job?

What's a 'Big' Party?

MIAMI (AP) — Jim Stewart believes in holding a real party. He invited a "few" friends for steak dinner as an anniversary celebration. About 500 arrived.

Stewart owns a steak house.

Low Blood Sugar Effect Has Several Factors

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any remedy for weakness from low blood sugar, other than eating? — A. M. W.

Yes, there are other remedies. The periods at which the blood sugar level is too low can bring weakness as well as headache and a feeling of being famished. However, several related factors usually will be present in various combinations, and it is usually fruitless to try to treat

New Trouble Threatened By Buddhists

Vice Premier Resigns From Viet Nam Post

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vice Premier Nguyen Ton Hoan resigned today, charging Premier Nguyen "has no legal authority or standing."

While Khanh recovered from a physical breakdown, new troubles were heaped on his regime by Buddhist leaders who threatened a general strike.

A strike will be called, the Buddhists warned, if the government fails to institute what they describe as needed democratic reforms.

Students have threatened renewed demonstrations if the government fails to pick men acceptable to them for a new National Assembly, promised by the caretaker government within 60 days.

Hoan has been vice premier in charge of pacification since Khanh took over the government in a coup last Jan. 30. During the civil disorders that wracked South Viet Nam last week, Hoan issued a statement criticizing Khanh and his government.

Khanh denounced Hoan in turn last week and charged that Hoan stabbed "his collaborators in the government in the back." He said Hoan was a key figure in a planned coup against his government, but that the plot was foiled.

In Da Nang, a coastal city 370 miles north of Saigon, an anti-government student group still refused to release a former army officer under "house arrest." He had been fired for alleged anti-Buddhist activities.

A crowd of some 200 milled around a Da Nang theater where former Lt. Tham Kim An was held captive by 75 student vigilantes. Ten soldiers stood guard outside.

Buddhist leaders have declared three days of mourning for two of their followers who died from wounds suffered in last week's Roman Catholic-Buddhist rioting in Saigon streets. Fears of possible new demonstrations were raised as several hundred Buddhists converged on their Saigon headquarters, milling around the two coffins.

Acting Premier Nguyen Xuan Oanh was among a stream of government officials who conferred with Khanh in Dalat, a mountain retreat 140 miles northeast of Saigon.

Communist North Viet Nam declared Tuesday that its territorial air space and waters extend 12 miles off the coast. The United States recognizes a three-mile limit.

a patient effectively unless these are taken into consideration. The patient's mode of living should be analyzed. What kind of exercise does he get, and how much? Are his meals regular, or is he the type of person who skips meals or sometimes picks at his food because he isn't hungry, or is emotionally upset?

What does he customarily eat? If he at times skips on protein, that can be a significant factor. Protein is released more gradually into the blood stream, hence guards against the abrupt ups and downs in the blood sugar level.

How much does he sleep? Regularity of rest is important to him. He can't burn up large amounts of energy with impunity.

If he has emotional problems, he must resolve them, not struggle along with the tensions and nervousness. Medications (tranquilizers or mild sedatives) often are necessary to correct certain nervous manifestations.

In some instances glandular deficiencies may need correction: There may be thyroid or adrenal underactivity. Frankly, it isn't always easy to convince a nervous, high-strung patient that he really ought to try to change his mode of living, learn to relax, and to be more regular in his eating, sleeping and activity patterns. But that is often what he needs far more than medication.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me a copy of "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." I enclose the required 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Is there any way to care for babies who have sinus trouble? Or is there such a thing in infants? — MRS. S.

The sinus trouble does not apply to babies, except in a most general way. Some of the sinuses (there are quite a few) are not developed at birth, although the principal ones, the maxillary sinuses, are present.

Sniffles and chronic runny nose, if a cold is not involved, more likely indicates an adenoid infection. If pus is present, antibiotics can be used.

If there is a watery discharge only, a more likely explanation is allergy. This is not uncommon in infants.

But if there are other signs that make you think of sinusitis, it is more to the point to look for some underlying cause. Examples are polyps, or bronchiectasis.

Trus sinus trouble is not very often seen in small children under the age of five years.

Dear Dr. Molner: My leg is bad and swells every so often. I would like to know why. — C.L.

There are many causes for such swelling. I could write for hours about it, and not help you as much as a physician could by 10 minutes of examining the leg and asking a few keen questions. The fundamental of good medicine is accurate diagnosis. See a doctor. Something is wrong, or you wouldn't have that swelling.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment for this pest, write to the Post-Crescent for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling. Mike McGuire, Jim Hendricks and Tom Weiss, hosts along with Tom's sister, Mary, put the late summer ears of corn over the charcoal as the party got underway Friday evening at the Weiss home. Below, selecting records, are Dave Eggert, Matt Rossmel, and Mike McGuire. The group was a mixture of Xavier and Appleton High School friends.

Corn Roast At Vacation's End

A group of Xavier and Appleton High School friends 'toasted' the end of vacation days with sizzling corn, tended and 'tendered' over charcoal Friday evening at the home of Mary and Tom Weiss, 2535 E. Newberry St. Co-hosts were Mike McGuire and Jim Hendricks.

The party began at 7:30 p.m., with the golden ears, still in their green husks, laid to the fire shortly after. About 60 guests watched it sizzle and pop, and took turns at keeping it watered down.

Music and dancing kept the teens busy until their 11:30 p.m. party curfew.

Episcopal Women Ready Plans for Sept. 12 Auction

Mrs. Richard Sampson and Mrs. Victor Shoaff are co-chairmen of the fund-raising event. The sale is not to be a rummage type, but will feature items too good to discard. Clothing and books, except for sets, will not be sold.

Appliances, Tools
To be offered to the highest bidder will be antiques, including furniture, dolls and dishes; other dishes, including vases and odd pieces; lamps in working order; chairs, tables, desks, chests, magazine racks and card tables; bicycles, tricycles, wagons and coasters; picture frames and mirrors; large appliances, such as stoves, refrigerators, washing machines and dryers, sewing machines and TV sets; small appliances, including toasters, fry pans, knife sharpeners, irons, percolators, fans, blenders and others; fireplace equipment; yard and patio furnishings; yard tools; sporting equipment; musical instruments, baby furniture and rugs.

Will Pick Up
The items to be auctioned have been donated by parishioners and friends. Those who wish to contribute items too large for them to handle or deliver may contact Mrs. Shoaff, 2518 N. Division St.

A snack bar will be set up to serve soft drinks and sandwiches to those who attend the auction.

Teen's Appearance Rates High on Worry List

NEW YORK—"Going Steady" is not contrary to popular opinion — the national pastime of American teen-agers. Many girls say that it cuts them off from meeting and getting to know other boys. The boys agree.

No one will deny, though, that teen-age girls — and boys — are concerned about their popularity. They also worry about their personal appearance.

The emphasis on good looks crops up time and time again in answer to the question "What things do girls worry about most?" Some aspect of personal appearance is said to be the biggest problem by more than half the teen-agers. Yet one of the main causes of worry — poor complexion — need be a problem no longer.

Teens Can Help Selves
Self-help, of course, is the key to skin problems — as it is to most other problems. Nobody can be more miserable than a teen-ager with acne woes. Yet, nobody can help them as much as they can help themselves.

The two indisputable answers to oiliness, blackheads and pimples are: follow the basic rules for good health and keep your skin really clean. Good food is one of the most basic of the basic rules for good health.

Skin specialists advise you to go easy on chocolates, nuts, fried and spicy foods and sharp cheese. They suggest that you eat only at regular hours, and that your diet be balanced with emphasis on fresh vegetables and lean meats.

The foods we all eat greatly influence our skins. For example, when vitamin A (found in butter, fish, yellow fruits and vegetables) is missing from our diet, our skin becomes dry and rough with splotchy marks over it.

Don't, of course, become a vitamin worrier. Just eat an intelligently balanced variety of foods.

Favorite Foods Taboo
Teen-agers, unfortunately, seem to prefer the very foods and beverages that are all wrong for sensitive, blemish-plagued complexions. French fries, chocolate candy, or popular carbonated sweet drinks are among the favorites that cause the skin to show its irritation in the form of blemishes. Peanut butter, cheese, shellfish and iodized salt also affect teenage skin adversely and should be avoided for the same reasons.

Other basic rules for good health are: drink at least two quarts of water a day, sleep at least eight hours a night, get plenty of fresh air, avoid sunburn, and make regular exercise a daily habit. Scrupulous cleanliness, to keep excessive facial and scalp oil at an

Spring Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

The engagement of Miss Margaret Steinbrecher, Chicago, Ill., to Neil Ort, Chicago, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Steinbrecher, Iron Mountain, Mich. Mr. Ort is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ort, route 2, Black Creek.

The bride-elect is a secretary at the John Plain Co., Chicago. Her fiancé is a computer operator for the Union Tank Car Co., Chicago. He attends Amundson College, Chicago.

A spring wedding is planned.

Miss Steinbrecher

absolute minimum, is of vital importance to all teen-agers. Bathe daily, and shampoo your hair and scalp at least once a week, more often if your scalp is oily.

Cleanliness Next to Beauty
Remember that your facial skin is thin, so treat it kindly. Wash it daily with pure mild soap and rinse thoroughly with warm followed by cool water. Girls should avoid greasy cosmetics and clogging cover-ups. Always use clean wash cloths and towels.

Never ever squeeze or pick pimples or blackheads. This is very dangerous, and can cause scars. If you are troubled with acne at the moment, you may have to work a little harder to begin with.

Punch Bowl Is Fresh As Flowers

To make a punch bowl sparkle with color, freeze fresh flowers in a cake of ice — about six to eight inches deep — to float in the punch.

Cut stems from carnations, roses, or any cut flower and place the "head" of each flower face down in the bottom of a suitable container used temporarily. Fill with water until the flowers are neatly covered. Freeze until solid.

Then add more flowers, without stems, on top of the ice, with the heads pointing upward. Fill with water until the flowers are completely covered, then freeze. Tap, or use lukewarm water, to free the cake of ice, and place in the punch bowl early enough to chill the punch, before serving.

Wash, Dust Plants

Dusting or washing the foliage of house plants will improve their appearance and frequently will result in better growth.

Use Clear Containers For Flowers

Arrange summer flowers in clear glass containers to create a look of coolness on hot days. A wire cradle, to hold the flowers securely in place, can be easily made and hidden from view in the container. Here's how:

Wind floral tape around two pieces of florist wire, determining their length by the container's diameter. Measure an inch or two from the top and allow enough extra to shape the ends into hooks.

Criss-cross the two wire lengths, shaping and fitting the hooked ends over the container's rim. Wrap the left-over short wire length around the criss-crossed center, leaving the ends extending up.

Cut chicken wire, 12 inches to 24 inches long, 4 inches to 6 inches wide, depending on the size of the container's opening. Then fold the cut sides of the wire over to the center and roll up the wire loosely into a ball to fit the cradle. Insert into the cradle and attach it with the wire ends extending up.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Sheinwold Beware Gift Trick With Greek Aim

The defenders can often gain an advantage by forcing declarer to accept a trick before he can make full use of it. If declarer refuses this Greek gift, the play may take the odd form of each side trying to thrust a trick on the other side.

West opened the three of hearts, and East won with the king. Since West had clearly led fourth-highest heart, East knew that South had another heart and could eventually ruff it in the dummy.

East could see that South held all of the missing high cards and that he would easily make the contract if he were allowed to ruff the heart at a time of his own choosing. The best chance of the defense was to make South ruff the heart prematurely.

When East returned the ace of hearts at the second trick declarer had his chance to ruff the trick in dummy. If he did so, however, he would go down. He would have no way to reach the dummy for the clubs and he would therefore lose two spades in addition to the first heart trick.

South worked this out in his mind and came to the correct conclusion: he didn't want to ruff that second trick. He discarded a spade from dummy, handing the proffered trick right back to East.

East couldn't gain by leading another heart, so he shifted to a club. There was still the chance that South had A-K-Q-8-7 of diamonds, in which case he would not be able to get to dummy with a trump.

As it happened, South had the five of diamonds — a card of great value precisely because it was so low. South won the club return, drew three rounds of trumps, got the other high club out of the way, and then led the five of diamonds to dummy's six. This enabled him to run the rest of the clubs, discarding his three low spades.

Mama Must Accept Son's Wife Despite Disapproval of Choice

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband, my sons, my doctor and the Rabbi tell me I am wrong. Maybe I am, but how can a mother change her feelings?

My oldest son, Milton, came to me four months ago and said, "Mama, I am married." I was very happy—until he began to tell me about the girl. She is not of our religion. She has been married twice before, and she is eight years older than Milton. I told Milton that as long as he lives he should never bring that girl into my house because I cannot accept her as a daughter-in-law.

The rest of the family sees Milton and his wife every few weeks. They all tell me she is a fine girl and that they are very happy. I didn't raise Milton for a marriage like this—even if he is happy.

You are a mother, Ann, and you must understand how I feel. Am I wrong?—S. S. W.

Dear S. S. W.: Yes, I do understand how you feel. But your unforgiving, stubborn attitude will bring you nothing but loneliness and misery.

According to my count, this girl has four strikes against her. I can't blame you for being unhappy about Milton's choice. But she is Milton's wife now and you should accept her.

ried less than a year and I believe it is improper for young women to go unescorted to bars or cocktail lounges and become friendly with men they never saw before?

Doreen insists she and her girl friend have met some very high class men this way and that it is a common and respectable practice. I think it is deplorable and have told her so. May I hear your opinion, please?—Behind The Times

Dear Times: Your daughter is half right. It's a common practice—plenty common—but it is not respectable.

Dateless women who rivet themselves to bar stools and frequent cocktail lounges give the impression they are pick-ups, even if they are not.

A girl who values her reputation doesn't rattle around town unescorted, or with another female.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 20 years old, attractive, has a lovely figure and two years of college.

Doreen has several young men friends who take her out, but it seems that she must be on the go every night of her life or she isn't happy. She thinks nothing of going out alone or with another girl if she has no dates.

Miss Cherie A. LaValle and Thomas G. Sonnleitner were married at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Menasha. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Melchior. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. LaValle, 331 Oak St., Menasha, are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sonnleitner, 335 Oak St., Menasha. (Zenefski Photo)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was going through the pockets of my husband's wash trousers before putting them into the machine I found a bank deposit slip. It was made out under his nickname. The account I know about is under his full name, which means this second account is a secret one.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

WHEN KITCHEN IS PRIVATE

Dear Louise: Friends of ours entertain frequently with informal dinner parties. We generally park at the back of their house where there is extra space, then knock at the kitchen door. My mother-in-law commented that even though we are close friends, Miss Davis, WE SHOULD GO TO THE WE SHOULD GO TO THE front. I am beginning to wonder if she is right. What do you think?

Louise Davis Answers:

I agree with your mother-in-law. At any kind of a party, a kitchen should be considered the hostess' very private domain and is no place to greet guests especially when she is prepared to meet them at the front door. Excuses would naturally be made in an emergency such as a blizzard or sudden down pour but even then the back door should be avoided if at all possible.

RETRIEVING KEY

Dear Louise: A few months after I moved into my apartment, I gave a key to one of my neighbors in case of any emergency. That was a year ago. Although we are still friends, I rarely see her any more and would like to have my key. How can I ask her for it without letting her think I don't trust her?

Louise Davis Answers:

Ask your neighbor if you may "borrow" your key. Meanwhile perhaps you can mislay your other extra key if you have one so that you will have a fairly honest explanation. Then just forget to return it.

Kaukauna Studies Union Pay Request

City Employes Say Salary Hikes Not Given; Ask Hourly Increases

KAUKAUNA — The common council Tuesday referred 1965 labor union requests and a letter concerning retroactive pay for city employes to the board of public works for study.

A representative of the city employe union said some city workers were entitled to a 5 cents per hour increase after completing a six-month probationary period but were not getting it. The representative asked that the adjustment be made on the next pay period retroactive to July 1. A review will be made to determine workers affected.

The union suggested four weeks paid vacation after 20 years, double time pay for work on Sundays and holidays, a 10-cent per hour increase for all employees and a change in work differential to 15 cents per hour for workers in Class B from those in Class C.

Object to Assessment
Attorneys representing Steiner Company objected to a portion of the $10,122 street assessment against the firm. Attorneys said some of the property on which they were assessed was owned by the Kaukauna Utility and some by the Chicago and

Little Chute Girl Complains of Injuries After Autos Collide

LITTLE CHUTE—Miss Judy Liebergen, 20, 726 Park Ave., complained of pain in her right hand and chest after a car in which she was a passenger was involved in a collision on Buchanan Street and E. Lincoln Avenue about 7:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said a car driven by Jerome Welhouse, 55, 213 S. Buchanan St., had stopped for an arterial and pulled into the intersection and collided with a car driven by Jerome P. Coenen, 41, 805 Park Ave., Little Chute. Welhouse told police the side windows on his vehicle were fogged and he did not see the Coenen car approaching.

Miss Liebergen was a passenger in the Coenen car.

Sewage Plant Meeting
A Sept. 21 meeting will be held with engineers designing improvements to the sewage plant and installation of secondary treatment to help answer a letter from the state attorney general requesting information on when construction work on the plant would commence and end.

The superintendent of the sewage plant asked for a full-time man for the plant, but action was delayed pending a meeting with engineers.

Low bid of Badger Highway of $2,127 for blacktopping a portion of Tobacco Street was accepted. Three bids were received on backhoe equipment and referred to the purchasing committee for recommendation.

3 Boys Say They Were Looking for 'Brass Knuckles'

Three juveniles who told police they were seeking "brass knuckles" were turned over to police juvenile authorities after admitting they entered an Appleton home Tuesday night.

Lyle Rasmussen, 902 E. Hancock St., told police he surprised the youths at his home about 8:30 p.m. They ran from the house and were arrested later.

The youths said they had planned to look for "brass knuckles" in Rasmussen's garage. Finding none, they said they entered the house "to look around." Police said the youths dropped a hunting knife and arrow on the front lawn when they ran from the house, but nothing else was missing.

Two of the youths are 13 and the other is 15 years old.

TAFFY'S TIPS

By Dolly Martin

GLOVES ON OR OFF?

When shaking hands, always keep your gloves on, if they are already on, and say nothing at all in the way of an apology about them. It's only the fellows who make an effort to remove their gloves when shaking hands. A girl always makes the first move to shake hands with a boy, but sometimes a boy will beat you to it. If he does, immediately extend your hand. Be sure your handshake is firm, brief and about waist level unless, of course, someone is much taller or shorter than you. A limp handshake usually shows complete disinterest. If you ever noticed this limp hand often goes with a monotonous mumbled "howdoyoudo." So pull out your hand firm, hardy, and friendly. Let a big smile go with it.

Lesson of Responsibility More Important Than Pet's Pedigree

Dear Dr. Jones: We don't understand how to evaluate which psychological mistake is the greater one. So we hope you'll help us decide.

We have two children, a girl who's eight years old and a boy who's five. They both want a kitty as a pet and we have been saving for six weeks to buy a kitten from the pet store. The kitten is a lovely Maltese and is just ready to leave his mother this weekend.

But last night my children came home with a straggly-looking cat they found mewing on the sidewalk. The cat's full grown, female, and ugly. But the children are absolutely radiant about it.

I don't care, honestly. I'm perfectly willing to keep her. But my husband says that the children made plans and saved their money and that we would be letting them be irresponsible if we let them just forget about the kitten at the pet store. By the way, don't suggest we have both, because I know our landlord would never stand for it. Mrs. D. N.

With a fullgrown female, you may very well have several kittens to dispose of in a few months. So let your children practice being responsible by disposing of that litter. To mix the metaphor, this is one time when it's all right to switch horses in midstream. The purpose of the pet is to let your children have an animal they love and want to care for. They don't need a Maltese for that.

Dear Dr. Jones: Why does a teenage girl suddenly think she's the only one who has a right to decide about how she looks? My 16-year-old daughter is the kind of girl who would look perfect in the slightly crazy, slightly extreme clothes that are high fashion now. But she insists on wearing clothes that are completely "Natural and wholesome," if you know what I mean. The difference between looking like a Balenciaga or like a Chanel.

She never puts on the things I buy for her, and she starts to fuss and even cry when I make comments about her clothes choices. But how can I help her develop some taste if she opposes my opinions so strenuously? The store people agree with me, by the way. MRS. W. S.

Your daughter needs the chance to develop her own tastes, not simply follow

St. Thomas College Alumni to Hold Campaign Dinner

Chairman of the dinner is Roger Colombo, 1321 Whittier Drive, Neenah. There are 105 St. Thomas alumni in the Fox River Area.

yours. Let her know your opinion, preferably in private, not in front of the saleswomen, but let her make the final decisions about what to buy or not. It's a waste of money for you to purchase things for her you know she won't wear. And it's also a challenge to her to prove to you that she won't, even though she might be dying to switch around for a change.

Red Military Brass Is Publishing The Fictional 'Seven Days in May'

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Moscow's military brass is publishing "Seven Days in May" and the Soviet press says it portrays "a real political situation which could easily be imagined" in the United States of the 1960s.

"Seven Days in May," a best-selling novel by Washington newsmen Fletcher Knebel and Charles Bailey, is a fantasy set in the future, built around what might happen if there were an attempt by U.S. military leaders to seize the government.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, published a Russian translation of one chapter of the hook last week, along with an announcement that the Soviet Ministry of Defense is putting out the complete work. Izvestia noted the book is fantasy but added the situation was easily conceivable.

Soviet Newsmen

As soon as the book was published in the United States, says co-author Knebel, Soviet newsmen perked up their ears. The Soviet press, he said, seemed to want "to make a federal case of it" and confuse fact with fiction.

Reached at his Florida home, Knebel said he was flabbergasted by the Soviet Defense Ministry's announcement and by publication of the chapter in Izvestia. Knebel recalled that some time ago in Washington he had been approached by a Soviet correspondent who had read the book.

"He seemed to be trying to pump me seriously, to see whether anything like that had ever really happened or how serious the threat might be," Knebel said. "I told him this was a piece of fiction, pure and simple, and the possibility that anything like it would happen was extremely remote."

Seize Government

The Soviet newsmen may have been unable to fathom all this. It seemed he couldn't see the reason for the book unless something like an attempt at seizing the U.S. government had at least been in the works.

It is not unusual for Soviet authorities to lift foreign books without permission, but it is unusual for the Defense Ministry's publications department to appropriate a work of fiction.

The publication could serve more than one purpose. It could be used to implant the idea that the military in the United States — called "Pentagon wildmen" by Soviet propaganda — are capable of staging a coup.

Publication under Defense Ministry auspices also could serve as a warning to Soviet military men. More than once it has appeared that Premier Khrushchev was under pressure from the military — notably in the instances of the U2 plane in 1960 and the Cuban missile crisis in 1962.

"I don't care who publishes the book or condenses or serializes it so long as they pay for it," Knebel said, adding he in-

Humphrey Was Called Fierce Debater at LSU

Studying for a Master's Degree In Government

BY CHARLES MCBRIDE
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — In the fall of 1939, a tall, almost penniless Midwesterner arrived here to study for a master's degree in government at Louisiana State University.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was nearing the end of his second term and the new graduate student was keenly interested in the New Deal.

Hubert Horatio Humphrey — U.S. senator from Minnesota who is now the Democratic candidate for vice president — came to LSU to study under Dr. R. J. Harris, one of the nation's top professors of political science.

LSU Student

Humphrey, at LSU during the 1939-40 school year and again in the summer of 1942, was described by fellow students as "broke but brilliant."

Dr. Harris, who now teaches at the University of Virginia, recently recalled that he and another professor went to the director of student aid to try to help Humphrey get a loan.

"The director asked if Humphrey were a Louisiana boy. We told him he was from Minnesota," said Dr. Harris. "He didn't get the loan."

Humphrey stayed at LSU, although he had to send his wife, Muriel, back to Minnesota. Harris says he was "one of the finest graduate students I ever had."

Fierce Debater

He also earned a reputation as one of the fiercest debaters on the LSU debate squad.

Ed Glusman, now a Baton Rouge attorney, was Humphrey's debate partner. Glusman recalls Humphrey was a devoted New Dealer who relished a good argument, especially one centering on foreign policy.

"His political views were more liberal than now," Glusman said.

Another debate team member, Alvin Rubin, who is also a Baton Rouge attorney now, recalled a debate pitting Humphrey and Glusman against a team from England's Cambridge University.

The English team relied strongly on wit and personal charm, rather than material, but Humphrey, said Rubin, "had good intellect — the ability to understand a problem and to quickly deal with it."

New Deal Supporter

Glusman and Humphrey, the staunch New Deal supporter, won the debate. They had the negative side of the question, "Resolved the United States needs Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term."

At the time Humphrey planned to make his career in education. But Dr. Harris and another government professor, Dr. Norton Long, say they recognized other potential.

"Norton and I threatened to fail him on his master's examination to keep him out of teaching," Dr. Harris recalled. "We wanted to make him a United States senator."

Olivia de Havilland to Star With Bette Davis

Italian Film Industry Gets Airing Tonight

Actress Replaces Joan Crawford In 'Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte'

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "There I was in Burgenstock, Switzerland," recalled Olivia de Havilland, "innocently enjoying picnics with my two children. Then came this phone call."

The call was from producer-director Robert Aldrich, a man with a headache. His film with Bette Davis and Joan Crawford, "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte," was suspended because of Miss Crawford's illness, the delay costing $50,000 per day.

"May I come and talk to you about it?" Aldrich asked. "Certainly," said Olivia.

Within two days he arrived in Switzerland to present her with the script. She read it twice, discussed it with him and talked with Bette Davis on the telephone. "I'd love to do it with you," said Bette with whom she had starred in the old Warners days.

Olivia's agent also urged her to accept the film, financial details were ironed out, and she said yes. That gave her three days to return to her Paris home to get a permanent, buy some "work clothes" for herself plus school clothes for her son and daughter, arrange a visa for a governess, etc.

Arrived 'Breathless' She arrived here this week somewhat breathless.

"It was worth all the rush," she declared over breakfast at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

"The script is wonderful — it's a real 'movie' movie, full of weird, offbeat characters and houses alive with intrigue and crystal chandeliers. The whole script fairly drips with Spanish moss."

"And it will be marvelous to work with Bette again. She is the only true genius that we have had among the motion picture actresses."

"Crackling Vitality" "With Bette it is a genius for creating life. It could be beautiful life, or ugly life; to her it didn't matter. She would allow herself to look like a wreck or she could be utterly glamorous. The important thing was that crackling vitality that always came through."

"She was always my ideal on those years at Warner Brothers. I always tried to emulate her search for life, her urgency to portray a person in a living way."

"Hush, Hush" will be the second film of grotesquery for Olivia. The two-time Oscar winner was last seen in "Lady in a Cage," a tough, heartless film that drew the most violent reviews of her career.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — CBS News, busy with other things lately, finally gets around to exhibiting J. C. Sheers' revealing documentary on the Italian film industry. In "The 150 Lire Escape," with Charles Collingwood as the host-narrator, Sheers is concerned with the country's low budget spectacles—the "Z" kind that often clean up on this side of the Atlantic.

6:30-8 (Channel 4-5)—The Virginian gallops back to tell us something about the early life of Trampas (Doug McClure), if anybody really cares. He was, it appears via flashbacks, a frontier juvenile delinquent.

Then his father (Sonny Tufts) took him to a new ranch and kept him out of trouble in the fresh air. (COLOR) Repeat.

7-7:30 (Channel 11)—The Patty Duke Show might have done a major service but fails. The plot involves a high school dropout, and the script flirts with this major problem. Repeat.

7:30-8 (Channel 2)—Suspense comes up with a thriller that reaps the harvest of some electrifying performances by Keven McCarthy, playing a disabled war veteran, and Victor Jory, who has a plan for a bold bank robbery. Repeat.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — In "Comes the Revolution" on The Farmer's Daughter, Katy is busy trying to melt the Iron Curtain. Repeat.

8-9 (Channel 4-5)—"A Free Agent" on Espionage has Anthony Quale and Sian Phillips playing lovers with no place to love. You see he is a British secret agent and she is a Russian spy. Repeat.

8-9 (Channel 11) — On Ben Casey, "A Certain Time, A Certain Darkness," we see a gentler side of our usually stern-faced M.D. as he aids a young mother (Joan Hackett), a car crash victim, who has lost her baby through epilepsy. Repeat.

8-10 (Channel 4-5)—On The Eleventh Hour, Edmond O'Brien plays an improbable Communist who is having a nervous breakdown because he is beginning to doubt his party line. Repeat.

9-10 (Channel 2)—Carol Lawrence brightens On Broadway Tonight with tunes from a show which made her a star—"West Side Story." Host Rudy Vallee goes his hi-ho way introducing young talent.

Western Union Official Retires

NEW YORK (AP) — George P. Oslin, public relations director for the Western Union Telegraph Co., was sitting in his office July 28, 1933, when "the idea suddenly hit me, why not make telegrams more fun to receive by singing them, especially on birthdays."

Oslin asked an operator to sing an experimental "Happy Birthday" to singer Rudy Vallee, who was celebrating his 32nd birthday that day, and the singing telegram became an institution.

Oslin retired Monday after 35 years with Western Union. He had received one singing telegram during his career, on his 65th birthday Aug. 5.

Population Trouble Plagues All Asia, Not Just Red China

Increasing at Four Times Rate
Of Food Production in Far East

BY KARSTEN PRAGER

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Red China's troubles in supplying its population the things it needs are often noted — but close to a billion persons in non-Communist areas of Asia also have a somber prospect for a better life. Population pressure in these countries is increasing at four times the rate of food production, says a survey by ECAFE, the U.N. Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East.

Hunger is a steady, grim companion for an estimated 250 million Asians. Millions more suffer from nutritional deficiencies.

Export positions, hinging on primary commodities such as minerals, rubber, tea and jute, are growing precarious. Four-fifths of the export income of much of Asia depends on commodities which face constant price fluctuations in world markets.

No Rapid Increase

No rapid increase in earnings from these commodities is in sight and deteriorating terms of trade can easily upset budgets and stall development plans.

Trade deficits have trebled over the past decade, a trend likely to continue in deterioration. Balance of payments and foreign reserve problems are widespread.

Foreign capital inflow has leveled off since 1960. Inflation has struck hard blows in recent years in at least three countries of the area — Indonesia, Korea and Laos.

While industrial production has grown, industrialization has not always turned out to be a panacea.

Economic Review

ECAFE's economic review covers 22 Asian countries that stretch from Iran to Japan.

It leaves out four Communist countries — mainland China, North Viet Nam, North Korea and Mongolia — all run on centralized economies. Of these at least one, Communist China, has battled food production and industrialization problems for years.

ECAFE's figures generalize the economic picture for the whole area and obviously do not apply equally to each nation. Food production, for instance, has exceeded needs in the rich rice granaries of the Southeast Asian peninsula.

Industrial Progress

Industrial progress has made giant strides in Japan, and fared well in Australia, India, Malaysia and Formosa.

Yet, for the region as a whole, the report says that "the rate of progress is generally inadequate for the needs of rapid growth especially in view of low level income and the high rate of population growth."

The survey shows that in 1963 food production — increasing by half a per cent annually against a 2.4 per cent rise in population — was down in India and Pakistan, two of the region's most populous nations, and in Afghanistan, South Korea, Iran and Nepal.

Indonesia, whose population now tops 100 million people, held about level and continued to need substantial imports.

Will Remain Dominant

Since agriculture will remain the dominant element in most Asian economies for years to come, the report says the food outlook is disturbing. To feed Asia's millions better, food production would have to be doubled over the coming decade and population growth would have to hold steady.

More intensive agriculture, irrigation, disease control and use of fertilizers are part of the answer, but farmers seem reluctant to break with traditional ways of working the land.

Asia has held on to a steady eight per cent growth rate in manufacturing. Yet its total contribution to world manufacturing output has been barely more than seven per cent. Excluding mainland China, only three countries — Japan, Australia and India — have managed to build up substantial industries.

Absorbed at Home

The survey points out that rising industrial production in Asia is still mostly absorbed at home. Even when there is an exportable surplus, prices are such that many manufactured products cannot compete internationally.

A refrigerator made in India costs $420 against $300 for a similar model produced abroad. Some competitive export lines, such as textiles, have run into protective barriers erected by developed countries.

ECAFE adds wistfully: "What are needed are entrepreneurship, research into advanced techniques and skilled and disciplined labor. The key to success is to convert the present surplus unskilled labor manpower into trained personnel. The more rapid the conversion, the greater will be the future rate of growth."

Susan Duin, 18, of San Diego, Calif., gives a shine with the woman's touch and throws in a smile in the bargain. She works on this customer's shoes at the sidewalk stand she operates so she can afford books and luxuries at college this fall.

Supreme Court Reverses Order Freeing Fleming

MADISON (AP) — A Wisconsin Supreme Court decision today dismissed an order that freed Raymond W. Fleming, deputy clerk of Milwaukee's criminal court clerk office from prosecution under a John Doe criminal warrant and remanded Fleming to the sheriff's custody. The action reversed an order issued by Circuit Judge Carl H. Daley of Superior two months after a weekend rioting in Philadelphia and earlier disturbances elsewhere.

FBI to Watch Racial Situation in North

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI has received instructions from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to keep a close watch on

Northern racial disturbances

A Justice Department spokesman said Monday that Kennedy told the FBI "to watch these disturbances to the full extent of our authority and responsibility and to keep in the closest touch with local authorities in order to ascertain all of the relevant facts."

Copter Saves Storage Tank

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — A Coast Guard helicopter pilot, skillfully tilting his craft from side to side, used its blades as a fan and blew a burning 18-foot boat away from a gasoline storage tank. Three men aboard the boat were burned seriously.

The boat had just refueled at a Wilmington River marina Monday night when its engine stopped. Bob Weeks, Leon Tianco and Tony Zervis, all of Savannah, tried to restart the engine. It exploded after several unsuccessful attempts, hurling the three men into the river. The helicopter blew the boat into a marsh, where it burned to the water line and sank.

The pilot, Lt. Cmdr. C. W. Swickley, then returned and picked up the injured men.

Foxes Annex ML Title by Beating Clinton in Playoff

Uecker Returns To Haunt Former Brave Teammates

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves know their enemies and are becoming increasingly suspicious of old friends. The latest of the former teammates to wreck the Braves is catcher Bob Uecker, who hit his first home run of the season and singled in the decisive run as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind Tuesday night to defeat Milwaukee 5-4.

When the Braves, with so many catchers they didn't know what to do with them, were looking for players to send to the minor leagues last spring, Uecker said that if he was the choice for another trip down he'd quit and continue his business career in his native Milwaukee.

The Braves obliged him with a trade to St. Louis, where he had compiled a .182 batting average but saving a little something for the Braves.

The defeat belted the Braves back into sixth place. The third-place Cards remained 7½ games off the pace while posting their seventh victory in their last eight starts.

Scored In Third — The Braves scored all of their runs in the third, routing Cardinal starter Ray Sadecki in the process. Ron Taylor took over and held the Braves to three hits over the last six innings for his eighth victory against three losses.

Denny Lemaster went the distance for the Braves, losing his 10th in 23 decisions.

Lemaster opened the third with a single, and Rico Carthy did the same. Lemaster scored as Carthy was forced by Ed Mathews. Singles by Hank Aaron and Joe Torre sent Mathews home and brought Taylor from the bullpen.

Taylor threw wild attempting to pick off Aaron at second, and the runners moved up a base. A balk allowed Aaron to score and Gene Oliver's loop single to center scored Torre.

The Cards got two runs back in their share of the inning as

Sommer Hurls 8-5 Win With Help From King; 16-Hit Attack Decisive

CLINTON, Iowa — The Fox Cities Foxes stormed to the Midwest League's grand championship by unleashing a 16-hit attack to topple Clinton, 8-5, in the post-season playoff game here Tuesday night.

Tim Sommer, with ninth-inning relief help from Henry King, pitched the Foxes to their first ML pennant in three seasons and their second in the club's 7-year history. The 1960 Foxes won the 3-I League title.

The second-round champion Foxes' potent attack overcame the effects of their porous (5-error) fielding. Sommer, in checking the C-Sox, who won the first-half title and were the defending ML champions, gained his 14th victory — a new club record.

Sommer pitched flawlessly through eight innings, allowing just three hits and three un-

The Billy DeMars — managed contingent threatened in the second but John Burrows was thrown out at the plate after a Burrows' single, a walk to Sommer and a bunt single by John Matias.

Clinton scored a pair of runs in the second inning, both unearned. Duane Josephson doubled to left and stole third, Burrows' throw went into left field, allowing Josephson to score.

After a lead-off single in the third by Pat Rigby (who was picked off first), Sommer retired 11 men in a row before an error on Matias halted the string.

The Foxes, meanwhile, scored once in the fifth. Bob Lewandowski blooped a single to left and took third on a 2-base throwing error by Don Welsh. A wild pitch allowed Lewandowski to score. Clinton mound ace Willie Hooker yielded singles to Dave May and Fred Rico to put runners on first and third before settling down to retire the side.

Wagner Resigns As President of Midwest League

CLINTON, Iowa (AP) — Walters, C. Wagner of Clinton, president of the Midwest League for the past two years, said Tuesday he is resigning as head of the Class A baseball league. He gave as the reason the amount of work and pressure put on the president by the 10-team circuit.

Killebrew's Homers Halt Baltimore, 2-1; Lolich Stops Chisox

Tiger Hurler Limits White Sox To Three Hits in 8-0 Victory

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a Punch and Judy show in the American League.

Harmon Killebrew played Punch. The Chicago White Sox played Judy.

Killebrew gave American League leading Baltimore the old one-two Monday night, hammering his 43rd and 44th homers for both Minnesota runs in a 2-1 victory over the Orioles.

The White Sox, meanwhile, swung like girls against Mickey Lolich, who played ring-around-a-rosie with the punchless Chicagoans, pitching six hitless innings before winding up with a three-hit, 8-0 Tiger victory.

And when the show was over, the Orioles still held their one-half game lead over the White Sox.

Killebrew, who hadn't hit a homer in 14 games, tied the score 1-1 in the fourth when he smashed a drive 415 feet over the left field fence. Then, in the sixth, Killebrew applied the knockout blow, a 405-foot shot over the same fence. Both homers came off Steve Barber.

Had Sox Dangling — At the same time, Lolich had the White Sox dangling. Bringing his record to 14-7 with his fifth straight victory, the 23-year-old left-hander did not allow a hit until Al Weis grounded a single to left leading off the seventh.

The only other hits off Lolich were singles by Camilo Carreon in the eighth and Pete Ward in the ninth.

The losses by the leaders enabled the third-place New York Yankees to climb within two games of the top. The defending champions whipped Los Angeles 4-1, despite the presence of the Angels' $200,000 bonus baby, Rick Reichardt, in the line-up.

Reichardt, making his major league debut in center field, struck out, fouled out twice and lined out in four trips and was unable to flag down Cleve Boyer's long drive that went for a two-run triple and capped the Yankees' decisive four-run sixth inning uprising.

McDowell, McMahon — Elsewhere, Sam McDowell and Don McMahon combined on a six-hit shutout as Cleveland blanked Washington 3-0 and Boston edged Kansas City 3-2 on a homer by Lee Thomas.

Killebrew's homers wiped out a 1-0 Baltimore lead built in the first inning on an error, a wild pitch and Brooks Robinson's double. Robinson's double was the only hit allowed by Twins' starter Jim Kaat, 15-7, until the eighth when John Orsino singled and Bob Johnson doubled.

When Kaat went to a two-ball, no-strike count on Jackie Brandt, Al Worthington came on in relief and snuffed out the Orioles' threat. He got Brandt to pop straight up to the catcher.

College Griddier Collapses, Dies At Practice

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi football team began its second day of fall practice today saddened by the unexpected death of a promising sophomore tailback.

Richard W. (Rickey) Elizey, 18, of Meridian, Miss., collapsed and died a few minutes after the start of the initial practice session Tuesday.

"A terrible tragedy," said coach John Vaught, who had called Elizey one of his best prospects.

Elizey, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder, had been catching punts before he collapsed. Cause of death was not immediately determined.

The players underwent medical examinations Monday and Elizey had passed with flying colors.

Jesse Owens, former Olympic Great, takes a torch from New York Mayor Robert Wagner to inaugurate "Run for the Money Day" to raise $1,000,000 for the '64 U. S. Olympic team. A total of 3,500 American athletes and businessmen will run cross country to Los Angeles where the relay ends Sept. 27. (AP Wirephoto)

Bays Wait to See if Anyone But Dallas Claims Carlisle

Vince Places Texas QB On Waivers

GREEN BAY (AP) — The player rich Green Bay Packers, who want to stay that way, have gone into the National Football League market place again, asking waivers on Duke Carlisle—the quarterback on the nation's top college team last season.

Carlisle, who called the signals as Texas rolled to a national championship in 1963, was claimed by the Dallas Cowboys, and said he would sign with them if the three teams that finished lower than the Cowboys last season don't claim him before a Thursday afternoon deadline.

The announcement from Dallas that the Cowboys were dicker for Carlisle apparently was premature. The Packers didn't mention his name in announcing player cuts Tuesday. Dropped from the squad were Dwain Bean of North Texas State and linebacker Gene Breen of VPI.

It was reported that if Carlisle is claimed by a team other than the Cowboys, the Packers will be withdrawn and Coach Vince Lombardi will work out a trade with Dallas. The Packers would have 24 hours to withdraw the waivers if Carlisle is claimed by anyone other than the Cowboys.

Other teams that have a crack at his services are Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington. A Cowboy spokesman said it was unlikely that any of the three would move to take Carlisle and it appeared he would play his rookie season in Dallas.

Carlisle, from Athens, Tex., was registered at a Dallas motel but could not be reached Tuesday night for comment. He apparently did not return to Green Bay with the Packers who whipped the Cowboys 35-3 in an exhibition in Dallas Saturday night.

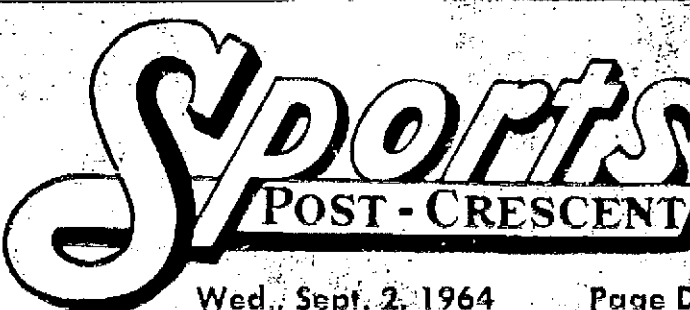

The 6-foot-2, 182-pound Carlisle was tried at defensive back by the Packers, who have seven other candidates for the posts on the squad. He was a fifth round draft choice of the Packers and received a bonus when he signed.

LaCrosse's Pavela Named Full-Time WCIAA Secretary

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Steve Pavela of La Crosse was named the first full time, paid executive secretary of the Wisconsin Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association Tuesday.

Pavela has held the post on a part-time basis since 1959. He will continue to make his headquarters in La Crosse.

The announcement was made by the Rev. Vernon J. Kuehn of Milwaukee, chairman of the association's board of control. Fr. Kuehn, who is principal of Messmer High School, said steady association growth necessitated the hiring of a full time secretary.

5 Underclassmen May Start on Offense for Terror Football Team

Lineup Taking Shape for First Game Sept. 11

If the Appleton High School football team were to take the field for its opening game tonight—rather than the night of Sept. 11, as the schedule calls for—as many as five underclassmen might be in the starting offensive lineup.

end, Terry Soley, quarterback, and Ron Brinkman, right halfback.

Whether these players — and possibly others — will continue to rank ahead of seniors until the opening whistle blows at Green Bay West a week from Friday remains to be seen. At any rate, the battle for positions is more intense than it was last year when the Terrors had 18 lettermen back.

The seniors whom Coach Ade Dillon now rates in the lead at offensive positions are Dennis DeCock, left end; Jim Dunsirn, senior fullback; and Jim Dunsirn, senior fullback.

Jockey Dies as Result of Fall From Horse at Caliente

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Les Balaski died Tuesday of injuries received when he was thrown from his horse Aug. 22 at Caliente Race Track at nearby Tijuana, Mexico.

Balaski, 49, suffered a spinal injury and neck fracture and had been paralyzed since the spill.

Regarded as the dean of Caliente jockeys, Balaski won 1,549 races during a career that started in 1933.

He was thrown when his mount, Miss La Mesa, clipped the heels of another horse, and stumbled in the 12th race of the program.

A native of New Orleans, Balaski rode in four Kentucky Derby races.

Clyde Conner Put on Waivers by 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran pass-catching end Clyde Conner was put on waivers Tuesday by the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

The 31-year-old Conner was hampered last season, his eighth with the 49ers, by injuries.

retary George E. Reedy said only, "We have no knowledge of it whatever."

From Tulsa, Okla., Republican National Chairman Dean Burch said President Johnson "should immediately call for a bipartisan congressional investigation to get all the facts, and to determine whether any member of the executive branch is involved."

Payoff Charged

"This is one scandal that can't be swept under the rug," Burch added.

The Baker case exploded anew in the Senate Tuesday when Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said in a speech that he had evidence of a $35,000 payoff he said was made by Matthew H. McCloskey Jr., Philadelphia contractor, on the Washington, D.C., Stadium contract.

McCloskey, finance chairman of the Democratic National Committee at the time could not be reached for comment. He resigned several weeks ago as ambassador to Ireland.

Williams told his colleagues that $10,000 of the $35,000 went to Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent, and that, according to Reynolds, $25,000 was turned over to Baker for "a contribution to the Johnson-Kennedy campaign fund of 1960."

Demands Probe Reopening

The senator called it a conspiracy in which "several laws were violated" and demanded an immediate reopening of the investigation into how Baker built up a claimed fortune of over $2 million while serving as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Baker resigned his $19,600-a-year Senate post last Oct. 7 after questions were raised by Williams and others about his outside business dealings. He refused to testify at an investigation conducted by the Senate Rules Committee.

24,805 with 293 of 307 precincts reporting in the district composed of a small portion of Detroit plus southwestern suburbs. In the other congressional race matching incumbents Rep. Harold Ryan outpolled Rep. Lucien Nedzi in the 14th District Democratic race, 23,289 to 21,154 with 260 of 268 precincts reporting.

Lesinski built a 9-to-8 lead in the 112 precincts of well-to-do Dearborn, an area where some observers thought he could score heavily if so-called white backlash materialized.

Civil Rights Setback
Dingell, like Lesinski, a white Polish-American, then began to pick up votes in the rest of the district, including a Negro area where he was expected to run well.

Civil rights advocates lost on another front when Detroit voters approved a "homeowners' rights" ordinance which prohibits interference with a person's asserted right to sell or rent his property for reasons wholly his own.

The measure seemed certain to move to the courts, however. A Wayne County judge ruled it unconstitutional last February but the State Supreme Court said it should first be presented to the voters.

Referendum Vote
Virtually complete returns showed 133,685 favoring the proposal and 109,671 opposed.

Mrs. Peterson, former vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, built an out-state edge that overcame the Wayne County (Detroit) lead posted by O'Neil, a member of the State Board of Education and the pre-election favorite.

State GOP Chairman Art Elliott said at 2:15 a.m. that O'Neil and Meany had conceded.

Romney endorsed none of the Senate hopefuls but was reliably reported to favor Mrs. Peterson, long one of his supporters.

Slow Count of Votes

Romney overwhelmed Higgins, who had campaigned partially on a basis of his support for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee.

Romney has not endorsed the Arizona senator, did not campaign in the primary and refused even to acknowledge he knew Higgins' name.

The over-all Republican turnout rolled up about a 5-to-4 lead over the Democratic vote total, seemingly brightening Romney's already-good November re-election chances against Staebler.

Ballot counting throughout the state was far slower than usual. Long lines of voters, some taking as long as 12 minutes in ballot booths, pushed poll closing far beyond the usual 8 p.m. deadline.

New congressional and legislative districts cut across traditional political boundaries, putting many voters in new and unfamiliar districts.

bled into the well about a half-block from his home after he and two playmates removed a cement-filled bucket that covered the opening.

The other boys ran to tell Mrs. Bettencourt, 24, who said, "My heart just broke."

"He had an asthma attack yesterday, and my first thought was that his air was cut off."

"I ran to the well and said 'Jerry, are you down there? Then I ran to call my husband."

"I stayed for the first half hour while they tried to get him out, but then I couldn't take it any longer."

The boy was pulled from the well as rescue workers sank a parallel shaft six feet away. His father, a 25-year-old heavy equipment operator, stood by with the boy's grandfather and two Catholic priests.

"I prayed all the time he was down there," said Mrs. Bettencourt. "I remembered when that little girl Kathy (Fiscus) fell in a well and died. I was just 9 then, but I said rosaries for three days for her."

Three-year-old Kathy Fiscus fell into a 35-foot well in 1949 in San Marino, Calif. Rescuers worked for two days as the nation waited for news, but she was dead when they finally reached her.

A physician who descended the shaft to reach her said she apparently died only a few hours after falling.

In 1957 Benjamin Hooper Jr., 7, was rescued alive after 23½ hours in a 24-foot deep well in Manorville, N.Y.

The Bettencourts have two other children, Anna Marie, and Joanne.

70 Persons Drown in Pakistani Disaster

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Seventy persons, including 15 children, drowned when a passenger boat capsized in the river Chenab, 200 miles from Rawalpindi, the Pakistan Times reports.

Authorities blamed the accident on overloading and arrested two boatmen.

ived, helped Mrs. Boczar and her children to safety and was hurt in a shootout with the holdupman.

The bandit fled when De-grease became temporarily blinded by bits of flying glass from a storm door shattered by a bullet.

The bandit ran five blocks to another Dearborn Heights home where Lula Forsythe, 28, was pulling her car into her driveway after a shopping trip.

As two of her three children left the car to open a garage door, the holdup man leaped into the auto, and ordered Mrs. Forsythe to drive away.

Mrs. Forsythe said she drove about half a mile. The bandit ordered her and daughter, Cynthia, 2, out of the car, took her wallet and $5, and drove off.

Johnson Asks FBI
Involving Baker

$25,000 Payoff for Kennedy
Race Charged by Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked for an FBI investigation into charges by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that builder Matthew McCloskey paid a $35,000 kickback on the D.C. Stadium construction contract.

Williams said in a Senate speech Tuesday that $25,000 of the alleged $35,000 kickback was channeled into the 1960 Democratic campaign.

White House Press Secretary George Reedy told newsmen almost casually today that the President had asked the Justice Department to request the FBI to "look into the matter raised by Sen. Williams."

Reedy said the request was made by Johnson Tuesday.

Decision up to FBI

Reedy was asked if the investigation might involve questioning officials of the Democratic National Committee.

"It's entirely up to the FBI," Reedy said. "I'm not expert on investigative techniques."

The investigation by the FBI will be made to determine whether there had been any violation of federal law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders moved cautiously today in the wake of a demand for reopening the Bobby Baker case to investigate a charge of a $25,000 payoff earmarked for Kennedy-Johnson campaign funds in 1960.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he would take the matter up with the Senate Democratic policy committee "in the near future." He declined further comment.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP leader, said there should be an investigation but cited a number of factors that he felt would prevent any early action.

Senators Want to Leave
"It certainly comes at an awkward time," Dirksen commented, noting that many senators want to get away to campaign.

Dirksen said he had conferred briefly with Mansfield, and would talk with him again after the Democratic policy committee meets.

Asked for comment on the charge, White House press secretary said: "The matter is being handled."

Senate Vote
Due Today on Health Care

Passage Probable
But Measure Would Face House Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate faces another showdown vote today on a politically explosive plan for Social Security health care for the aged — the third such test in four years.

The proposal is strongly backed by President Johnson, whose Senate lieutenants were making an all-out effort to round up the votes to put it over.

It is just as heavily opposed by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, who flew here from California to vote against it. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the outcome may be extremely close.

Defeated in 1960

In 1962, with President John F. Kennedy battling for the plan and the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., leading the fight against it, the vote was 52 to 48 to defeat it.

In 1960, Kennedy presented the proposal himself as a Senate member and the Democratic presidential nominee, but it was rejected 51 to 44.

Senate sponsors of the Social Security plan said in advance they were looking for victory by about two votes. They appear to have gained strength since the 1962 test because six new Democratic senators were elected last year; these have been offset by only three new Republicans.

One important factor will be the number of Republicans who favor the Social Security approach. In 1962, five did. Dirksen said he thought four or five might vote for it this time.

Even if the proposal gets through the Senate as an amendment to a House-passed Social Security bill, it still faces highly dubious prospects when the measure goes back to the House.

Goldwater Back
To Fight Johnson
Medical Care Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Answering the summons of Senate Republican leaders, Sen. Barry Goldwater came back to Washington early today ready to vote against a scaled down version of President Johnson's plan for medical care of the aged.

After a hectic day in Los Angeles and a 45-minute stop in Phoenix, the Republican nominee for the White House sped across the country in his chartered jet airplane to be on hand for the crucial vote.

"The vote is very equally divided," said the Arizona senator, an outspoken foe of the administration plan for health care financed under the Social Security System.

Goldwater interrupted what was to have been a stay at home in Phoenix after a telephone talk with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Backlash Not Clarified
In Michigan's Primary

Opponent of Rights Law
Loses Race

DETROIT (AP) — The potential of so-called white backlash remained clouded today as Detroit voters approved a "homeowners' rights" ordinance while a Detroit area congressional district rejected the only Northern Democrat who voted against the civil rights bill.

The developments shared Tuesday's Michigan primary election spotlight with an upset victory by Republican Elly Peterson, who became the first Michigan woman to ever win a major party U.S. Senate nomination.

Overshadowed was Republican Gov. George Romney's nearly 8-1 renomination margin over a more conservative GOP opponent.

Backlash, if any, apparently was a minor factor was not evident as Rep. John Dingell beat Rep. John Lesinski, the civil rights bill foe, in a district where reapportionment threw them together.

Reaction on Housing

But the homeowners' ordinance victory seemed a reaction against open housing sought by civil rights advocates. Its leading proponent, Thomas L. Poindexter, led candidates seeking City Council nominations.

Poindexter in November will face a Negro, Jackie Vaughn, whom he outpolled 2-to-1.

The role of backlash — reaction against Negro civil rights activity — is viewed as a major question in the 1964 presidential campaign.

With 4,851 of the state's 5,209 precincts reporting, the key statewide votes stood:

U.S. Senate — Mrs. Peterson 204,726; James O'Neil 176,621; Edward Means 142,146, unopposed Democratic incumbent U.S. Sen. Philip Hart 455,778.

Reds Flying Home

Details of Breakout in Laos Still to be Published

CLARK FIELD, Philippines (AP) — Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, a U.S. Navy jet pilot shot down by Lao gunfire, was flying home today after escaping from Laos to neighboring Thailand.

Klusmann arrived here from Thailand about 4 p.m. An informed source said he boarded a U. S. Military Air Transport Service plane bound for the United States. His exact destination was not disclosed.

Details of the escape have not yet been made public. Klusmann, 30, had reached the safety of an American base at Udorn, Thailand. There he received medical attention, food and clean clothing. The U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, Laos, announced he was being flown to the United States.

Family Happy
At their home in San Diego, Calif., Klusmann's wife, Sarah, said she was "absolutely elated" but not surprised by his escape. "What I said in the beginning of all this was that if anyone can get out, he can," she said. "He has been through the survival school that all Navy aviators go through."

The embassy said Klusmann appeared to be "in relatively good physical condition." The escape was first disclosed by the White House in Washington Tuesday afternoon.

Klusmann was on a photo reconnaissance flight in his unarmed Crusader jet over the Communist-held Plaine des Jarres in central Laos last June 6 when Pathet Lao gunfire brought him down. He was based on the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

He parachuted safely but wrenched a knee in landing. Klusmann waved off a rescue helicopter, as Pathet Lao ground forces were closing in. The pilot was last seen surrounded by Communist soldiers.

Last month, eight letters from Klusmann were forwarded to his wife by the Red Cross. The pilot did not say where he was being held, but that he was kept in a mud-walled hut, 12 by 20 feet, and its thatched roof leaked in the rain.

"They appear to want to keep me in good shape," Klusmann wrote. "But they don't want me to go anywhere. They have been reinforcing my 'accommodation' with barbed wire and I am well guarded by young lads."

Klusmann said his knee was treated by the Communists.

His presumed escape route would have taken him through dense jungle, and areas with mountains reaching to 9,000 feet.

Boy Rescued
From Well in California

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — A 3-year-old asthmatic boy who fell 25 feet down an abandoned dry well was rescued Tuesday night. "Scratched up and a little wild-eyed" after three hours.

A crowd of more than 100 cheered as Fremont policeman Duayne Watson, 26, pulled Jerry Bettencourt from the foot-wide, 90-foot deep well with two ropes.

The boy had been breathing with the aid of an oxygen tube lowered to the bit of rock where he was wedged. He was taken to Washington Township Hospital for 24-hour observation. He was said to be in good condition.

Pulled Out By Wrists

"He'd begin to cry a little while I was fishing for him and I'd talk to him," said Watson. "I got a nylon cord to him and jerked on it until I had it around his wrist."

With the young victim's help, a second rope was secured to his other wrist and Jerry was eased to the surface.

"He wasn't hurt," said Watson. "Just dirty and scratched up and a little wild-eyed and surprised."

Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary George Bettencourt, turned to Page 4, Col. 6

Malaysian Spokesman Says
Parachutist Slain, 3 Held

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Indonesia launched an airborne attack before dawn today, landing 30 paratroops into the center of the southernmost mainland State of Johore, the government charged.

A government spokesman said one battalion of soldiers and a police field force attacked the paratroops, killing one and capturing at least three in the first fighting.

Coming two weeks after a small seaborne landing in Johore, the airborne operation indicated Indonesia intends to extend to the heartland of Malaysia the guerrilla attacks hitherto confined to Malaysia's distant Borneo states.

Sukarno Cancels Leaves

4 Gunmen Seize
$5,000 in Holdup
Of Post Office

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four masked gunmen held up the post office in nearby Hales Corners Tuesday, escaping with about $5,000 in stamps and cash after binding the postmaster with mail straps and chaining three other employees.

Postmaster Joseph Kurylo and the others were dragged into the vault by the bandits, who wore handkerchief masks. Kurylo said he was able to free his legs and get to a phone to call police.

Kurylo said he was in his office talking on the telephone when a man came to the door, pointed a pistol and said, "Hang up." The postmaster said, "I didn't give him an argument."

The gunmen entered the post office through a rear door about 5 p.m., nearly a half hour after it had closed to the public. The victims told tales of terror. Police Chief Harold Phelan said three of the men had guns in their hands when they entered. The fourth kept watch at the door.

Kurylo said two of the men held guns on the staff while another searched for stamps and cash. The postmaster said the robbery took about 20 minutes. The loot included $380 in cash.

Plastic Window Put in Blinded Eye
May Restore Sight to Thousands

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — An ingenious new window soon will be placed in blinded human eyes in hopes of restoring sight permanently.

It is a transparent plastic cornea, the window of the eye, with a removable pane in the center. This tiny pane can be screwed out — like a fuse from its socket — to permit correction of any complications that might arise later, then put back in place.

May Help Thousands

If the artificial cornea proves as successful in humans as it has in rabbits and monkeys, it may restore sight to thousands of blind persons, Dr. William Stone Jr., an eye physician, said today.

One rabbit lived its entire long life of four years and three months with a plastic cornea securely implanted in its eye, he said.

Scarring or clouding of the cornea is a leading cause of blindness. Corneas borrowed from human eye banks can help only about 25 per cent of persons with damaged windows, he said.

Dr. Stone estimated 90,000 Americans are partially or completely blinded by opaque corneas, as well as hundreds of thousands in areas of the world, especially where trachoma and smallpox take heavy toll by affecting the cornea.

Dr. Stone, Dr. Hirotsugu Yasuda, chemist, and Miguel F. Refojo, doctor of science, described the plastic cornea to an American Chemical Society symposium on medical uses of plastics.

They have been working at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston. The team is moving to the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, where Dr. Stone plans the first implants into human eyes.

The plastic cornea is only one-third of an inch wide. It is disc-shaped, with a hollow nubbin or projection sticking up in the center. It is inserted, from the side, between two layers of the natural cornea.

A hole is punched through the clouded central part of the cornea so the nubbin pops up through it.

Then the pane is screwed into the threaded nubbin. Light rays pass through the pane, then the lens of the eye, then onto the retina.

If the back, thin layer of the natural cornea clouds again, or other trouble develops, the pane can be removed for surgical repair, done with aid of a microscope.

If a cataract developed on the lens, it could be surgically treated through the hole, Dr. Stone said. The plastic cornea can be extended completely through the cornea if necessary. The plastic cornea, tailor-fitted to the individual eye, has holes through which connective tissue of the real cornea can grow, anchoring the implant more securely. Essential fluids can pass through the holes.

State Suggests Waupaca Valuation be $16.7 Million

May Raise Assessments 50 Per Cent

WAUPACA — Recommended full valuation of the City of Waupaca is $16,776,300, according to a revaluation recently completed by the state.

This is a 72.5 per cent increase over the last state valuation—made a decade ago—which set the value of property in the city at $9,723,064, according to City Assessor Henry Wiegel.

Total assessed valuation of the city in 1955 was $6,028,300 for a 62 per cent level of state valuation. Total assessed valuation in 1963 was $8,255,225 for a 49.3 per cent level.

Higher Selling Prices
Decrease in the assessment level is due to increased building costs and to higher selling prices of property, Wiegel said.

Because the city's assessment level is not below 50 per cent of the state valuation, Wiegel said that after the 1964 assessments are determined a flat 50 per cent general increase will be added to all valuations to bring the level of assessment closer to the statutory requirement of full market value.

According to Wiegel, this increase in valuation will not necessarily mean an increase in the amount of taxes each property owner will have to pay. It is expected the tax rate will be reduced in proportion to the increase in the assessment.

If this is the case, the amount of taxes to be collected will be the same as before. If city, state, school or county budgets are increased, however, the story may be different, Wiegel said.

Chilton Council Awards Well Equipment Pact

Appleton Firm Has Low Bid to Restore Old Pumping Station

CHILTON — The $4,954 bid of Water Conditioners, Appleton, was accepted Tuesday night by the city council for the rejuvenating of No. 1 pumping station.

Bids were opened at the Aug. 18 council meeting but none were accepted pending an explanation of the bids by McMahon Engineering, the city engineers.

The expenditure is for softening material and related equipment to restore the pumping station to efficient operating condition.

The pumping station had been shut down after the well, located at Pennsylvania and E. Main streets, had been contaminated by gasoline.

Pipes to be Laid

Council approval was given to the mayor and engineers to negotiate for the six-inch water pipe to be laid from the well to the station. Bahr Construction Co., which is now doing the work on the sewage plant, will be contacted for the work.

Bids for additional pumps, booster and auxiliary, plus a building to be constructed over the new well site, will be sought and opened at the Sept. 15 meeting.

Vincent Reinkober, utility commissioner, urged immediate action on the well because of an acute water shortage in the city. Water from the new well is desperately needed as soon as possible, Reinkober said.

Last year, Reinkober explained, the pumps were producing about 650 gallons per minute; this year the total of the four pumps has dropped to 650 gallons per minute.

The new well, according to A. O. Clinton, city engineer, will produce more than 200 gallons per minute, or enough to bring water supplies back to normal. In an effort to alleviate the shortage hard water has been pumped into the mains, bypassing the softeners.

One reason for the shortage, as mentioned at the meeting, was the 100,000 gallons per day used by the Chilton Canning Co. Although this is only temporary, the council decided to press for a solution to the water problem.

Larger Pump

Clinton suggested installation of a larger pump at No. 1 pumping station.

The reason for this, Clinton said, was the present pump has a 100-gallon capacity. With the anticipated 200-gallon per minute capacity of the new well, a larger pump will be needed.

Milder Subdivision Ordinance Sought For New London

Fear Requirement of Developer Paying Costs May be Excessive

NEW LONDON — Modification of a subdivision ordinance which would require the developer to pay the expense of installing water mains, sewers, roads and other public conveniences was recommended to the New London City Council Tuesday night.

The recommendations were made in a letter written by City Atty. Sigurd W. Krostue.

Krostue said that some members of a committee preparing the subdivision ordinance felt strict requirements would discourage property development.

Acting Mayor Gilbert Kroll advised all committees that budgets must be completed by Oct. 1 to allow time to examine and make adjustments in all departmental requests.

The council approved a request by the Chamber of Commerce to hold Farm Market Day on Sept. 19 on the parking lot behind city hall. The chamber said it also would make a request to the First State Bank for use of its adjoining lot.

The council authorized the payment expenses of designated officials to attend two League of Wisconsin Municipalities conferences in September. Assessors will meet Sept. 14-16 in Eau Claire and plumbing inspectors Sept. 16-18 in Wauwatosa.

Members of the board of public works, Mrs. Grace Stern (3rd), Jerome Zaig (1st), Matt

Burton (5th), Art Gesse and Ray Pelishek, were named to a special committee to meet with Borden Food Co. and Donohue and Associates, engineering firm, to prepare a plan to combat local Wolf River pollution. Pelishek will set up a meeting between the groups as soon as possible.

A new disorderly conduct ordinance was read which incorporates state law.

Weed Cutting
No action was taken on cleaning up weeds that grow between curbs and roads. Pelishek suggested that property owners be informed it is their job to cut weeds. The operation would be extremely expensive to the city, he reported.

The traffic and safety committee recommended that a plan for parking meters on city lots be tabled until the lots are repaired. The committee said the process would be spread over a period of time because of the expense. The new south-side lot will deplete the parking meter fund, according to the report.

Mrs. Stern said a meeting on a landfill dump was held last week. She said there would be a report after further study.

Mrs. Stern was given permission to contact the board of education about the possible hiring of a joint city-school nurse in the meeting's final action.

Search for Son of Man Who Died Tuesday

Friends and the family of an 87-year-old man who died Tuesday night in New London Community Hospital are trying to locate the deceased man's missing son.

Herman Flieth, 87, had been asking the whereabouts of his son Raymond (Ray), about 35, for several months before he died.

Friends said the last they knew about the younger Flieth's location was about nine months ago when he was seen in Neenah. Before that he had been employed for about 20 years as a night attendant at the Outagamie County Hospital.

Ray Flieth is described as about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds, having graying hair and a ruddy complexion. Acquaintances said he sometimes wears a mustache.

The body of the father has been taken to the Wichmann Funeral Home in Appleton.

The Agricultural, Conservation, education and parks committee of the Waupaca County Board inspected the new boat landing constructed by the Town of Larrabee on the south side of the Pigeon River, just north of State 45, and west of Clintonville. The road is three rods wide and the landing runs a distance of 120 feet at its widest point along the river's edge.

Waupaca Sheriff Keeping Close Watch on NFO; Chilton Area Quiet

Stock Prices Fall Despite Withholding

Waupaca County law enforcement officials today are keeping a close watch on National Farmer Organization (NFO) activities after an outbreak last week.

In Calumet County NFO members are maintaining a peaceful boycott of a terminal stock station while farmers continue to sell stock and prices fall.

Waupaca Sheriff Loran Frazier, in a statement, clarified action taken Tuesday by his department during an outbreak when a livestock trucker's vehicle was detained at a farm in the Town of Dupont.

The sheriff's office will maintain peace and take action if any person or persons complain of being detained while shipping or loading any livestock, he said.

Written Opinion

Frazier said he conferred with Dist. Atty. Gerald Anderson Aug. 26 before he dispatched men to the Lawrence Deter farm where a truck was being held on the property as it attempted to load stock.

Anderson said anyone who barricaded a truck, even on private property, is guilty of disorderly conduct. If a trucker is prevented from traveling on the public highways, there are a number of statutes which apply, he said in a written opinion.

Cattle receipts at the Armour and Co. receiving station, Chilton, Tuesday totaled more than all of last week, an Armour representative said.

Livestock prices in general are lower, he said. Cattle are about 50 cents lower, calves $1 to $2 down and bull prices are $2 lower.

Razing of Waupaca's Delevan Hotel May Be Ordered This Week

Action Will End 3-Year Fight To Remove Condemned Building

WAUPACA — A death warrant for the Delevan Hotel will be prepared within a few days, Mayor Lloyd Matheson told the city council Tuesday.

City Atty. Laurie Anderson will issue a razing order to the owners the mayor said, sometime this week. If they do not carry out the order, then the city will contract for the razing and charge the cost to the owners, Matheson said.

The razing order will bring to a climax a three-year fight to remove the condemned building from the city's Main Street. Owned by George Suman, Adams, the building has been condemned more than six years and closed for four.

According to Code Building Inspector Otto Kiel told the council the state plumbing inspector had toured the building recently and said the plumbing would have to be re-installed according to state code if the building were to be reopened.

"The plumbing is probably the only thing that is holding the building up," one person quipped.

In other action, the board of public works was delegated to prepare a set of building and plumbing codes for the city. These will be submitted to the council for formal action. The city presently does not have a plumbing code.

Robert Strobe was appointed to replace Ald. Alver Lindskoog (5th), who resigned to take a position in a Rockford, Ill., hospital.

Submits Resignation
Ald. Kieth Grover (2nd) submitted his resignation Tuesday, effective Oct. 1, because he is taking a position with a Beaver Dam firm. Action on his resignation is expected at the next council meeting.

It was announced City Clerk Mrs. Harriett Ward will be in her office Saturday to distribute absentee ballots because the office will be closed Monday (Labor Day).

Fund Drive Meeting Set At Chilton

CHILTON — A kickoff meeting for the Chilton United Fund Drive has been scheduled, at 8 p.m. Sept. 14 by chairman, Andrew Pendl.

Pendl said the purpose of the meeting, at the Calumet Memorial Hospital conference room, is to discuss the proposed articles of incorporation and methods to be used to proceed with the charity program.

The United Fund was originally organized Aug. 25 in a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors and members of the Kiwanis Club. Pendl was elected chairman of a citizens' committee to organize the fund raising effort.

This will be the first time such an attempt to consolidate all the fund drives in the city into one major undertaking.

All organizations in the city have been asked to send a representative to the organizational meeting, Pendl said.

Sentence Worked Off As Melon Thieves Clean Bridge

NEW LONDON — "Operation Cleanup" was the order of the day issued by Police Chief Jack Algiers to six of seven boys involved in the theft of melons from the Hamilton Canning Co.

The boys spent the past week battling layers of accumulated dirt on the Pearl Street Bridge while working off their sentences.

Algiers started this unique punishment for juvenile offenders several years ago. The juvenile gives the city a face lifting while performing clean up duties to pay off his sentence.

Leon Nicholas Fritch, 19, route 2, Fremont, also involved in the theft, was fined $25 in Municipal Justice Court Monday after he pleaded guilty.

School Bus Drivers' Clinic at Clintonville Draws Some 50 Persons

State Officials Outline Value of Transportation, Need for Safety

CLINTONVILLE — A school bus clinic for drivers from the Clintonville area was attended by more than 50 persons Tuesday morning at Clintonville Senior High school.

Speaker was Theodore A. Sorenson, supervisor of pupil transportation, State Department of Public Instruction.

A film on bus transportation of pupils was shown. Participating in the program were Ronald Lortcher of the State Traffic Patrol; Paul E. McPeck, Antigo, supervisor of driver examiners for this area; H. J. Van Straten, Outagamie County superintendent of schools; Burr E. Tolles, senior high principal, and K. O. Rawson, Clintonville school superintendent.

Sorenson said pupil transportation is an integral part of the school program and cannot be looked on merely as a convenience

Classroom Extension
Transportation, Sorenson said, is an auxiliary service only in the sense that it helps make instruction available to all children regardless of where they live.

He said transportation must be more than just a ride to and from school. It must be treated as an extension of the classroom.

The success of a transportation program depends to a great degree on the cooperation and understanding between school personnel, parents and the drivers, he said.

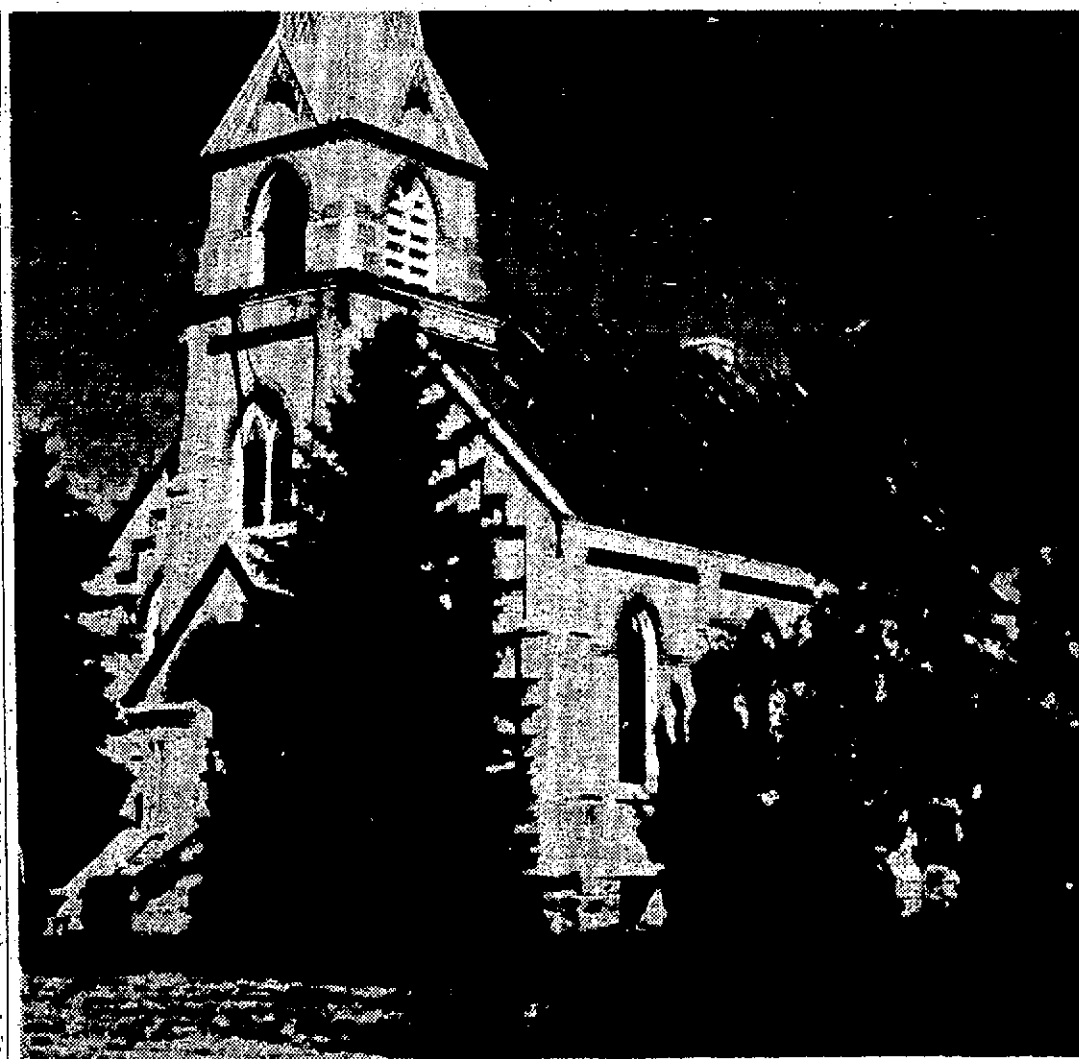

368,613 Transported
The Department of Public Instruction, shows the average school bus in Wisconsin transports 60 pupils each day; travels over a route 24 miles long; picks up a rider every 4 of a mile; is a 1960 model vehicle; travels 57 miles daily, and covers 10,194 miles annually on regular routes.

Wisconsin has 4,802 school buses (for 12 passengers or more) in use and 1,486 station wagons and autos to carry children to school. Of the total school enrollment, 38.5 per cent are transported or a total of 308,013 students.

In 1951-52 there were 2,199 buses driving 23.7 million miles with 113,133 pupils transported at a cost of $7,804,554. In 1963-64 there were 4,802 buses driving 48.9 million miles with 308,013 pupils transported at a cost of $23,000,000.

School bus drivers, mechanics, administrators and board members from Iola, Scandinavia, Shiocton, Manawa (Little Wolf), Marion, Bear Creek, Ogdensburg, New London and Clintonville school districts were present for the clinic.

Previously polls were open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Under the new ordinance, to be presented at the Sept. 15 meeting, polls will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Another ordinance allowing the city's taverns to remain open election day will be presented for approval at the next meeting. State law leaves the option to the individual municipality, and the local council had never taken action on the matter.

Both ordinances will go into effect for the November election.

Alderman Arnold Weller told the council he had been informed by officials of Chilton Malt-Co. that machinery to alleviate the odor created by the cooking of malt would be installed soon.

Many complaints of the odor had been received by the council.

A letter from the State Department of Taxation informed the council $1,751 will be the city's share of liquor taxes. This is $29 less than received last year.

Disciplinary Problem Increases in Schools, Teachers' Poll Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — A poll of teachers published Monday showed that many teachers — especially those with greater experience — think student discipline is harder to maintain now than when they started to teach.

The poll was conducted by the research division of the National Education Association and published in the NEA Journal.

Forty-five per cent of the teachers said they thought discipline was more difficult now than when they started to teach, 31 per cent said it was about the same, 20 per cent said it was less difficult and 1 per cent was undecided.

But 62 per cent of the teachers with more than 20 years experience thought discipline now was harder to maintain, compared with 44 per cent of those with 10-19 years and only 25 per cent of those with 5-9 years.

Brillion Teachers Told to Turn Out 'Total Citizens'

BRILLION — Robert Thom, guidance director and dean of boys at Neenah High School, speaking at an in-service faculty meeting here, told teachers their most important job was to turn out "total citizens" and not just students who have a skill after leaving high school.

Thom's topic "One Teacher to Another" at the Wednesday meeting stressed the importance of educating today's students to become better citizens of tomorrow.

On Friday Thom told a Calumet County Republican Women's Unit that according to a recent poll, 75 per cent of all citizens in this country have little interest in politics.

Citizens, Thom said, should dig into the facts and learn the personality of the government officials so the voter may make an intelligent decision.

Mrs. Ken Dexheimer was appointed assistant publicity chairman.

The next meeting of the group at Potter will be Oct. 6.

New Holstein Huskies Eyed As EW Title Contenders

Conference Coaches Comment on Team Depths, Season Possibilities

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

CHILTON — Undefeated defending Eastern Wisconsin Conference champion, the New Holstein Huskies, have been picked by league football coaches as top team in the league which starts play Sept. 11.

Chilton, 1963 runnerup, was picked as a strong contender for the league grid crown, with Sheboygan Falls and Plymouth listed as darkhorses. Plymouth, undefeated 1962 champion, came in seventh last year, and Sheboygan Falls ended the season in fifth.

A poll of league coaches taken this week gave Kohler two votes and Valders one vote as contenders for the title.

Nine Votes

The poll gave New Holstein nine votes to take the top spot and the Chilton Tigers received nine votes to place second.

Elkhart Lake this year started conference football participation after being independent.

New Holstein's grid machine will be built around a nucleus of 14 lettermen, led by senior defensive end, Ken Criter, the only returning all-conference Huskie player.

One of the Huskie strong points will be an experienced backfield with senior halfbacks Jeff Kestell, Roger Schneider and John Solk, fullback, Oran Sattler, and quarterbacks, Ken Criter and Eugene Mand.

Rookie Coach

Rookie coach, Jim Jenquin, who replaces Don Rhode at the Huskie helm, listed his line depth as a team weakness.

With the loss of three all-conference players including all-state candidate halfback, Tom Dhein, the Chilton Tigers will be bolstered by 16 returning monogram winners.

In 1963 the Tigers dropped the season opener to New Holstein and then proceeded to compile eight consecutive wins for a final season mark of 8-1.

Return to Squad

Returning to the Tiger squad are all-conference defensive end, Al Whitby, who this year is one of the captains, and Guard Paul Juckem and Fullback Mike Woelfel.

Second year coach Ted Thompson stressed a strong line as one of the better points of the 1964 team. There are 11 seniors among the 16 returning lettermen. Nick Schaff, senior punter and end, will be lost to the Tigers for at least part of the season with a broken leg suffered during practice.

With the loss of Gary Behnke, all league defensive and offensive honorable mention player, prospects for the Brillion Lions are not too good.

Returning to Coach Allan Coenen's team are five lettermen, four of which are seniors, Lee Haberman, Jim Ross, Dave Stehula and Tom Lodel. The lone junior letterman on the squad is guard Dick Keller.

Kaukauna Man Attends National Scout Conference

Marvin Hooyman, scoutmaster of Troop 31, Kaukauna, and his wife participated in a farm-city conference at Philmont Scout Training Center, Cimarron, N. M.

Hooyman has headed the troop, chartered to the Holy Name Society, Holy Cross Catholic Church, Kaukauna, for two years.

The scholarship on which he and his wife attended the conference in New Mexico is part of a program launched eight years ago by the National Rural Scouting Committee of the Boy Scouts of America. Only 160 men from all 50 states were awarded such scholarships.

Purpose of the conferences is to study and exchange effective program ideas and outreach methods related to making Scouting available to all farm, village and city boys, according to Joseph A. Brunton Jr., chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

Harlem Shows No Desire for More Violence

Little Reaction Toward Refusal To Indict Officer

BY AUSTIN SCOTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Harlem residents who reacted so violently to a white policeman's fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy in mid-July displayed little outward emotion today to a grand jury's refusal to indict the officer.

The average reaction was disappointment, but not surprise as word spread through the Negro community that the New York County grand jury decided Tuesday Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan was not criminally liable for shooting James Powell to death. The youth was killed July 16 in front of an apartment building in the Yorkville section, two miles from Harlem. Many considered it an act of police brutality and the fuse that touched off four days of rioting and looting by Negroes two days later in Harlem.

Violence Spread
One man was killed and violence spread to Brooklyn's predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section for three days.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan prepared a 14-page news report on the case. It digested 1,600 pages of often contradictory testimony given in secret by 45 witnesses at 15 jury sessions.

Negro leaders generally were critical of the report. James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said CORE would issue its own report.

Police reports said Powell was shot after he lunged at Gilligan with a knife. Gilligan was off duty and in civilian clothes. The boy, on lunch from summer school classes, had chased an apartment house owner after the man sprayed him with a garden hose — deliberately, ac-

Passenger in Car Hurt in Collision

One person received a minor arm injury and said she would see a family doctor after a two-car accident on S. Morris on Street at South Alley Tuesday afternoon.

Injured was Mrs. Janis Cleary, 504½ Broad St., Menasha. She was a passenger in a car being driven by Mrs. Sybil G. Ackerman, 505 W. Fifth St. Her car was going north on S. Morris when it was involved in a collision with a car driven by Mrs. Suzanne M. Janssen, 327 Cleveland Ave., Kaukauna, which was going west on South Alley.

According to some student witnesses. The man, however, said the spraying was accidental.

No Desire
Talks with community leaders and random street interviews indicated no desire for further clashes with police.

Many of the youths involved in the previous violence said they did not want a repeat of the four nights of bloodshed. "Too many innocent people got hurt," said one young man. "People are staying away from Harlem."

John Young, chairman of a "Visit Harlem Week" scheduled for Sept. 13-20, said more than 100 block association youths were walking the streets most of Tuesday night urging other teen-agers and young adults not to cause trouble.

William Epton, a self-styled Communist who had distributed thousands of "Wanted, Gilligan for Murder" posters, said he didn't expect any trouble.

Worked Hard
Young issued a statement saying, "We have worked diligently to create an atmosphere of welcome and safety. We have come a long way back since the recent crisis. We must not allow this decision to destroy this work."

But L. Joseph Overton, acting chairman of the newly formed Harlem Unity Council, said "I don't care about violence any more. If it comes, I feel this time it's not the responsibility of the community."

British Liner Was First World War II Casualty

LONDON (AP) — A brisk breeze whipped up the North Atlantic as the British liner Athenia cut through the whitecaps on her voyage into history a quarter century ago Thursday. It was Sunday, Sept. 3, 1939. The 13,581-ton ship was only a day out of Liverpool bound for Montreal.

Among the 1,417 passengers — 200 more than normal — there was little of the usual gaiety of an Atlantic crossing.

Just before lunch, the expected news came. A seaman posted a bulletin that Britain and France were at war with Germany.

The sweep of events in Europe dominated the conversation among passengers and crew. Many on board were Americans who had hoped to get home before the outbreak of a general war.

Dinner Hour
At 7:45 p.m., as the sun dropped toward the horizon, the Athenia was 250 miles off the northern tip of Ireland. Some passengers were still having dinner.

Suddenly, the lookout in the crow's nest shouted. An eighth of a mile away, a periscope poked through the water. A white streak of foam

Former IPC Speaker Dies After Stroke in Geneva, Switzerland

Robert E. Wilson, 71, an advisor to the U. S. delegation to the Atoms for Peace Conference and once a speaker at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, died in Geneva, Switzerland, Tuesday after a stroke.

Wilson, a former member of the Atomic Energy Commission and also former board chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana, was principal speaker at an IPC executives' conference in the 1940s.

Flames Sweep Wittenberg Lumber Firm

Westgor Loss Set At $60,000; New Machinery Lost

WITTENBERG — Flames swept through the Westgor Lumber and Trucking Co., Inc., sawmill shortly after 6 p.m. Tuesday leveling the structure in minutes.

Damage to the 9,800 square foot, single story mill, located about three miles south of here along State 153, was estimated at $60,000. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Harold J. Schumacher, a neighbor of Stanley A. Westgor and his daughter, Marge, who operate the firm. They live about a half mile from the building.

Save Lumber
When Wittenberg Volunteer firemen arrived at the scene, the L shaped, cement block structure was burning out of control. Firemen concentrated their efforts on saving nearby log and lumber piles. They remained at the scene for about an hour.

Destroyed with the building was the firm's recently modernized sawing and lumber processing equipment. The mill was built by Westgor in 1936 and new equipment was installed in 1961. It averaged about 2½ million board feet of lumber annually and employed nine full-time workers.

The mill was damaged by fire in 1947. At that time it was rebuilt and back into production within a month. Westgor does not know if he will rebuild again.

Real Story
But the real story of the attack on the Athenia came out at the Nuremberg war crime trials in 1946. A statement by Adm. Karl Doenitz told how he had met the U30 on her return to port and encountered a "very unhappy" Capt. Fritz-Julius Lemp, the submarine's skipper. Lemp told Doenitz he had mistaken the Athenia for an armed merchant cruiser on patrol. The Nazi regime imposed an oath of secrecy on everyone involved and even ordered the U-boat's log doctored.

U30 went on to make several more kills.

Human Guinea Pigs

For many years there have been controversies over using animals in experimental research. Some of the opposition has been unduly maudlin and unrealistic in view of the care given to the animals and the tremendous advances in the saving of human lives resulting from discoveries during experimentation. Some of the criticism seems to have foundation in that there appears to be unnecessary duplication of experiments and unnecessary suffering.

But now a much more serious ethical question is developing. How far can human experiments go and how can they be controlled?

The dreadful reports of Nazi experiments with their unwilling captive victims have made human experiments a sensitive matter. But, as explained by reporter Jerry Bishop in the Wall Street Journal, there has been a change in human experimentation that makes the ethical line harder to draw. Formerly most experiments were conducted on healthy volunteers. But in the last few years, the patient is more likely to be a dying person or one who has been seriously injured and the experiment is a last ditch effort to save life or limb.

Such clear-cut experiments as kidney transplants or efforts to sew back a severed limb clearly do not break the Hippocratic Oath which emphasizes that anything done to the patient must be for his benefit. But there was considerable controversy in Boston when 18 children, who had to have part or all of their thymus glands removed, were also used for skin graft experimental purposes. It was a minor experiment and permission of the parents was gained but nevertheless the children became human guinea pigs as well as patients, and the experiment had nothing whatsoever to do with their own well-being.

After World War II the so-called Nuremberg Code was set up to govern medical experiments on human beings. In general, it states that the patient must be willing, that he has authority to end the experiment at any time and that the risk must be balanced by the value to society. But there is no clear ethical direction when a person who has sought a doctor for treatment also becomes such a volunteer. With the wide variety of new drugs on the market, there is bound to be a lot of experimentation by physicians.

Ahead there loom even more serious ethical problems. Laboratory researchers have been successfully growing various forms of tissue in cultures. When the day comes that they are able to develop human reproductive tissue and create a true test tube baby, what are the ethical responsibilities involved? Or is it unethical even to develop such tissue?

Mankind is exploring farther and farther into space and the problems are immense. But as we delve deeper into the nature of matter and the mysteries of creation, maintaining a balance between such exploration and the sanctity of human life is going to be difficult—and important.

'Call, Raise, Draw or Fold?'

Professors Would Rather Switch

One of the major problems of almost every institution of higher learning has been the growing tendency of faculty members to roam around and take new positions in different colleges and universities. Gone are the days when a young instructor stayed at one school and became a grey-bearded campus legend.

The concern over losing capable teachers, or the small supply in certain fields, often hovers over trustee and regent meetings as new means of holding or attracting teachers are discussed. Higher salaries were at one time the major lure. Now the various fringe benefits, including low teaching loads, time for research and independent study, sabbaticals, good housing, insurance and free tuition for children or wives all are used. The "atmosphere" of a campus also is the more nebulous attraction sometimes presented.

It was inevitable that someone would—probably during a sabbatical—make a study of the problem, the trend and the results. Dr. Howard Marshall, chairman of the department of Economics, Sociology and Anthropology at Vassar has published his report as The Mobility of College Faculties.

The turnover has improved salaries and teaching conditions, Dr. Marshall writes, and so probably has been advantageous for the teaching profession as a whole. But he sees some drawbacks, both now and in the future. There can be little continuity in course and guidance from a professor who changes institutions every few years. Graduate students are especially handicapped by the disappearance of a guiding professor. Some administrations may get so fed up with the costs and bother of constant recruiting that they may hire the first applicant rather than offer more inducements to the better. And Dr. Marshall warns that "just as industrial employers tend to regard excessive turnover as a signal of warning, so can academic institutions find cause for alarm."

There is bound to be a continuing shortage of college level instructors, particularly in some fields, in the next decades as the college bound population inflates. This is especially true of the doctoral applicants since it takes a long time to get a doctor's degree.

But there also are more and more college graduates going on for further study. And there also are indications that college teaching is becoming a much larger field as it becomes a more lucrative one. Eventually the shortages may level off as they have in elementary and secondary schools teaching opportunities. As the competition for professors abates, so will the "mobility" of the faculty. But it will take some time.

Heart of Darkness

When Moise Tshombe came back to the Congo to take over as premier from the abdicating Adoula, he magnanimously let a lot of other people return from exile. But the experiment in wooing support hasn't paid off thus far.

Antoine Gizenga had led a left wing and probably Communist supported insurgent movement against Tshombe back in the days when Katanga was trying to secede from the Congo federation. Later Adoula caught him and sent him into exile on the island of Bulembemba in the mouth of the Congo River. There he stayed for 2½ years until Tshombe invited him to come back. The two rode around in an open car for all to see and Gizenga referred to Tshombe as "my brother."

But that was a whole month ago. Last week Gizenga brought together half a dozen left wing splinter parties into what he has named the United Lumumbist party after the hero of the left wing, Patrice Lumumba. And the line he echoed was the same old stuff.

"The present de facto government has shown itself incapable of finding a political solution to the country's problems," announced Gizenga. Then he elaborated about the "military aggression of the United States and Belgium against our defenseless people" and his followers shouted "down with America!"

The new first assistant secretary general of the Lumumbists is Andre Lubaya, another who came back when Tshombe returned and who has been on a good will tour for the Congo as Tshombe's minister of health.

It is difficult to ascertain whether Gizenga decided on his move at this time because Tshombe has been using white mercenary troops in an effort to defeat the tribal and Communist inspired rebels, or because Tshombe was beginning to show some signs of military success. Nor is it clear whether Gizenga is really a Communist or whether he is trying to exploit the Red line to his own personal advantage.

The only thing that is perfectly clear is that the Congo has been in a constant state of near chaos ever since the Belgians left and that there is likely to be more of the same for months to come.

Goldwater Proposals on Cuba, Viet Nam Appear to be Dangerous

BY MAX FREEDMAN

WASHINGTON — A few hours after the Democratic platform was issued, with its optimistic version of world events, the situation in Viet Nam suddenly became more uncertain and precarious. Rarely has the undesired complexity of a political document been so swiftly and thoroughly exposed.

Freedman

But the Johnson administration cannot afford to waste its time over the prejudiced manifestoes of Atlantic City. It must grapple with the harsh and unexpected events in Viet Nam.

Optimism Thins
The official optimism in Washington is wearing a little thin now. Whenever something goes wrong in Saigon, someone is always available here to pluck a hidden root of encouragement out of the thicket of misfortune. Part of this brave optimism is both necessary and wise. If a sense of weariness and despair began to spread in Washington, the struggle in Viet Nam would soon collapse and the Communists would take over the country.

So the Johnson administration must wear a brave face in misfortune, and perhaps talk most bravely when the misfortune is greatest. All the same, there is something awkward and embarrassing about American officials limping anxiously after a cruel event and pretending forlornly that they knew all about it all the time. It is an empty game that deceives no one.

The central reality of the situation in South Viet Nam is that its people, while opposed to communism, are unwilling or unable to make the sacrifice necessary to defeat the Communist subversion. The people of South Korea fought with sustained bravery and though Dr. Syngman Rhee was a difficult and imperious leader, he organized an epic of resistance. In Viet Nam there has been no such leadership despite all the shuffling in Saigon, and no such popular support for the war.

Assist Not Dominate
The Johnson administration deplores this fact but it is too honest to deny that it is a fact. Under President Johnson's direction, as under President Kennedy's and President Eisenhower's, American policy has tried to assist South Viet Nam, not to dominate it nor to dictate to it. It has treated South Viet Nam as a free and independent country fighting against desperate odds to maintain its national identity. It has never treated Viet Nam as a rebellious colony, as the French did, nor as a captive state, as Sen. Goldwater apparently would do.

Although his formula for Viet Nam is more than usually obscure, Sen. Goldwater seems to be as critical of the political restraint which has guided American policy as he is opposed to its military restraint. He would try to shake the government and people of Viet Nam into a more vigorous resistance, and he would be less reluctant than President Johnson to issue commands and arbitrary orders. If Viet Nam did not listen and obey, the United States would quit the country, thus handing South Viet Nam over to a Communist tyranny with the inevitable massacre of thousands of innocent people.

Goldwater Policy
Since Sen. Goldwater would abhor this massacre as much as President Johnson, it can be assumed that his entanglement with the war would be much closer and more dramatic than anything we have yet known.

The United States under a Goldwater policy would assume greater political responsibility for a larger military commitment in the war. Instead of providing us with a short cut to victory, he is really proposing a policy of greater risks and sacrifices, with no assurance at all that the war would remain in its present limited form. A direct and substantial enlargement of America's role in this fashion would almost certainly force China to increase her support for North Viet Nam, with the dangers of a spreading war growing all the time. Thus Sen. Goldwater, instead of giving us a simple and easy solution, has advanced a proposal filled with dangers which he has concealed from the American people.

He has offered the same kind of deceptively easy solution for Cuba. He wants us to recognize a Cuban government in exile and to support its efforts to overthrow the Castro regime.

Cuban Possibilities
Now it will be very hard to find Cuban exiles who will command the support of all the factions opposed to Castro. But let us assume that this formidable difficulty is solved. What happens next?

Emboldened by American aid and lavish supplies, the government - in - exile would greatly increase its raids on Cuba. Then one day would come the invasion. The exiles would broadcast a piteous and urgent plea for our help as they faced Castro's guns and planes.

In that emergency we could abandon to its own wretched fate the government which we had formed and recognized, financed and armed. Or we could come to its rescue on the Cuban beaches, invade Cuba ourselves, and in defiance of the doctrine of non-intervention so dear to all Latin America, be inevitably involved once again in Cuba's internal affairs.

It is not necessary for any of us to solve this dilemma. That is Sen. Goldwater's duty and responsibility. He, and he alone, must make the choice; and if he is candid with the American people it will be clear that his choice, in Cuba as in Viet Nam, will lead either to shame or to danger. The last thing it will give us is an easy and honorable escape from our present difficulties.

Wisconsin Report

Former Reporter, Now Inside Washington, Offers a Confession

BY WILLIAM R. BECHTEL

MADISON—For years as a nervous reporter, I sat outside the doors of Wisconsin governors wondering what was transpiring on the other side. I often felt that if I could just pass through that closed door all my questions would be answered, all the truths revealed.

Bechtel

Now I sit inside the door, in conferences with governors and cabinet members, senators, congressmen and other key people. My principal discovery is that I was wrong; there are no magic answers, no blinding truths behind the doors of high officials.

Furthermore, I have discovered that my job is strikingly

As a reporter covering government, I spent most of my time studying and listening to discussions of public matters such as education, public health and welfare, economic problems of Wisconsin, the need for new public buildings and services. I would try to write a report on these discussions which would be interesting and informative. I still do the same thing today, and the fact that I am doing it in Washington rather than in Madison makes little difference.

I developed some pride in my ability to spot public problems, rivet attention on them, and, at least by implication, demand that someone do something about them. Suddenly I find that finger pointed at me, and at those with whom I sit behind the doors of a public office. That is the real difference between government service and newspapering, and it is a big one.

Guest Columnist

John Wyngaard, whose Wisconsin Report column normally appears in this space, has arranged for a series of guest columns during his assignment to the Democratic convention and a vacation period following. Guest columns will appear here through Sept. 11.

For the solutions to our national problems — and our state and local problems — are not simple. It takes hard study of an immense range of facts. And difficult as it is to determine the proper solution, it is even more difficult to sell this solution — to the administration, to the Congress, to the press, and ultimately to the general public.

similar to a job as a newspaperman. The only real difference is in the fixing of responsibility for handling the public's business.

Senators and governors and others who sit behind those big wooden doors are human beings. As a group they may be a little better at public speaking, a little smoother in dealing with the different members of our complex society, a little more widely read and informed than the average businessman or teacher or labor leader or professional man. But most of all they are human beings, with their own individual strengths and weaknesses. They are ambitious, yet they get tired. They are smart, but they don't know everything. They worry just as much as everyone else about having to deal with things they don't fully understand. They are skilled in handling people, yet they can't please everyone and the glamour of public acclaim is often dimmed.

THE DIFFERENCE
The big difference between standing inside and outside the door of a high public office is the simple fact that responsibility rests squarely inside. As President Truman used to say, the buck stops here.

Strictly Personal

No Individualism in True Sense of Word

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Over the years, I have tried and failed to understand the men who call for more "individualism" in our economic life — as if our economic life were something apart from the general pattern of society.

Harris

"True individualism," it seems to me, must start with the individual, not with the economic order. And we are not, on the whole, turning out a nation of individuals.

The same men who demand individualism in business are timid and lazy conformists in everything else. They lead proper, standardized lives; they read the same insipid magazines; watch the same inane television programs; and repeat the same clichés as all their proper, standardized neighbors.

They would be outraged if a true individualist appeared in their midst. He would be blackballed from their clubs, excluded from their social gatherings, and possibly reported to the F.B.I. as a dangerously subversive character.

Look at Our Clubs
No nation in the history of the world has ever been so "group-minded" as ours. We have tens of thousands of groups and clubs and associations, for every conceivable purpose — and for no conceivable purpose, except for the warm feeling of "belonging" that it gives most people.

Individualism is an obscure bubble in this sea of gregariousness. The man who wants to preserve his personal identity is ridiculed as an eccentric or resented as a snob. If he sees life at a different angle from his fellows, this difference is not encouraged and enjoyed, but feared and (finally) fought.

It seems shallow and hypocritical, therefore, for us to clamor for a greater degree of individualism in one aspect of life, while stifling it in another. If a man's freedom to do business should be respected, what about his freedom of thought and speech and habit?

Without the toleration of broad differences, there can be no such thing as a genuine individualism.

The man who is locked tight within his company, within his suburb, within his particular church and club and summer resort, within his commonplace magazines and mass-produced entertainment, is no more an individualist than an oyster floating down Chesapeake Bay. To be a captive of one's own position and prejudices is a more intense slavery than any tyrannical government could devise.

Poverty Bill Brightens Hopes of Kentuckians

Good Results From Vocational Schools

HAZARD, Ky. (AP) — The antipoverty legislation just signed by President Johnson means a crack in the wall of despair to some in this depressed area. Much more is needed, but residents are particularly happy about the educational aim of the bill, one observer said today. "Vocational school has helped us no end," she said. A major provision of the bill is to help school dropouts resume their education, aid needy college students with part-time work and provide training for jobless youths.

60 Graduates
As one example of training, 60 vocational graduates recently got jobs at a tourist lodge in a nearby state park. They had trained in subjects ranging from mechanics to waitress work.

"Sixty out of a little town like Hazard is a lot," was one comment. "Vocational education is very important, the main thing," said State Sen. William Engle of Hazard. But he and others agree the main hope of this area is the Appalachian bill — an $840-million program.

The major need, Engle said, is roads. This is promised in the Appalachian bill — a $840-million network of development highways to replace narrow, worn roads that keep the region isolated from modern America. In North Carolina, Gov. Terry Sanford said "the state of North Carolina and the entire nation will benefit considerably" under the antipoverty bill. Even though state antipoverty action is under way, he said, "there are many things possible under the President's program which would not have been possible under our state program." The antipoverty bill also includes loans to low-income families to improve farm operations. Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky testified before Congress that half the families in 61 Kentucky counties have annual incomes of $3,000 or less — the yardstick used by the administration to determine poverty. The Appalachia proposals, he

Goldwater Backtracks On Social Security

By SYLVIA PORTER

"Social Security should be voluntary. If a man wants it, fine. If he does not want it, he can provide his own." Senator Barry Goldwater, New York Times Magazine, Nov. 24, 1963.

"If a person can provide better for himself, let him do it; but if he prefers the government to do it, let him." Senator Barry Goldwater, during New Hampshire primary campaign, Jan. 7, 1964.

Since making these statements, the GOP candidate for President has backtracked considerably, now speaking cautiously in terms of improving and strengthening the system. But there is no doubt where Goldwater's heart lies. There's also no doubt that many others agree, would like to see our Social Security System violently overhauled and placed on a completely voluntary individual basis.

There are 75 million workers making regular contributions to our Social Security System. There are almost 20 million beneficiaries now on retirement, disability and survivor rolls.

Vital Concern
This subject is obviously of vital concern to our entire nation and it has now been pushed by Goldwater into highest-level politics.

What, then, are the key arguments for making the system voluntary? Who would benefit? How would a switchover from today's compulsory system to a voluntary one affect the operation and finances of the system? Why is today's Social Security compulsory?

Those who favor a voluntary system make these main claims:

(1) A compulsory system hits younger workers hardest, heaps "unearned" benefits on older workers. A couple now retiring, for instance, may have paid a maximum of $3,516 in contributions — yet benefits due them today total $32,000. The young worker and his employer are being compelled to make up for this gap — while paying for the worker's future benefits as well. This, charges one congressman, is "compulsory bankruptcy for our children."

(2) Benefits due millions in the higher income brackets today are too small to be of important value in retirement. This is because contributions and benefits today are figured on a maximum of only $4,800.

Compulsory System
(3) A compulsory system deprives the individual of his right to plan his own future, to use the money he earns today to purchase insurance for tomorrow in line with his own needs and ability. A compulsory system "has encouraged the Federal central bureaucracy to use its authoritarian power for social planning at the expense of individual equity," in the words of opponents to this year's Social Security amendments.

(4) A voluntary system would give all citizens the right to elect the type of insurance protection most suitable to them — Social Security coverage, a private insurance plan, savings, securities, annuities. It would encourage all to assume responsibility for their own future instead of "leaving it to the government" — and for those who refuse this responsibility there are federal — state welfare rolls.

Again and again, voluntary social security has been proposed by business groups, congressmen, politicians of both parties. Again and again, the proposal has been studied and restudied

Politicians Strike at Supreme Court Power

Amendment Would Delay Action On Order for Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, which has moved into vacuums Congress wouldn't fill, is getting its own particular kind of backlash from politicians.

In a struggle now over curbing the court's powers members of Congress have themselves so boxed in they may be here another month although they could use the time in election campaigning.

An attempt is being made to undo the court's ruling last June that voters in the states are entitled to far more equal representation in their state legislatures than they are getting now.

Example: Under arrangements unchanged for more than half a century in some states a relatively small number of people in one district, especially country district, can elect one legislator while four times as many people squeezed into a single district elsewhere can elect only one.

Population Basis
The court said representation in both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis of "one person, one vote," and federal courts have the job to see it's done.

The present attempt to undercut the authority and range of the court is looked upon as so dangerous by opponents of the effort that one of them, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said "it could wind up rendering the court a nullity, destroying our Republican system of government."

The powerful court over the past 10 years has infuriated one group after another with decisions ranging from a ban on segregation to a ban on official prayers in public schools. It inflamed the politicians — some of them — by its decision on state legislatures.

Political Machines
The politicians and political machines which hold power in state legislatures where representation is not on an equal population basis naturally don't want any changes that would cost them jobs or power.

Some people, not directly involved, may feel the court overreached itself. But the Republicans at their convention this year responded to the opposition to the court ruling by putting into their platform a promise in support of "A constitutional amendment, as well as legislation, enabling states having bicameral (two-house) legislatures to apportion one house on bases of their own choosing, including factors other than population."

This would take away the court's power to order reapportionment of both houses on a population basis.

A week after the Republican convention in July Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader of the Senate, attempted to carry out the platform promise by introducing a proposed constitutional amendment in Congress.

But there wouldn't be time to act on it this year, since Congress is coming to an end. It would have to wait till next year. So as an interim move Dirksen made this proposal in the form of a bill to be passed this year. Delay any court orders on reapportionment for about two years.

He didn't offer it as a bill by itself — he said he didn't think it had a chance that way — but as an amendment on the $3.5-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

Foreign Aid

President Johnson is anxious to get the foreign aid money if he vetoed the bill because of the attached Dirksen amendment, the whole thing would have to go back to Congress. He very probably wouldn't veto it. That's Dirksen's strategy.

For some strange reason, although the value of people's votes are involved in all this, Johnson has said nothing, taken no stand. The Democrats in their platform played mousey by leaving out all mention of reapportionment.

But some members of the Senate — particularly liberals led by Sen. Paul Douglas, a Democrat and like Dirksen from Illinois — wouldn't buy any part of it and are determined to fight until they kill it.

Delaying Action
The two-year delaying action in the Dirksen bill would give Congress time to approve the kind of constitutional amendment he has in mind and then perhaps time for the states to approve.

A constitutional amendment must be approved by two-thirds of House and Senate and by three-fourths of the state legislatures — 38 out of 50 — or three-fourths of conventions called by the states. It is up to Congress to decide which method is to be used.

If it was done by state conventions — to which delegates would be elected by the people — the voters could have a direct voice in whether they wanted reapportionment by voting for delegates who were for or against it.

But only once in American history — this was the 21st Amendment ending prohibition in 1933 — has an amendment submitted to the states by Congress been approved by state conventions.

If Dirksen's amendment went to state legislatures it's not hard to imagine the politicians who stood to lose jobs or power by reapportionment would jump at the chance to approve the amendment.

Wisconsin 16th In Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin ranks as the 16th state in population, the Census Bureau said Monday in its annual estimate. The Wisconsin population was listed as 4,107,000.

Wisconsin was down one notch from a year ago.

The estimates were as of July 1, when the bureau said the nation's population was 191,334,000, an increase of 2.7 million over the last 12 months.

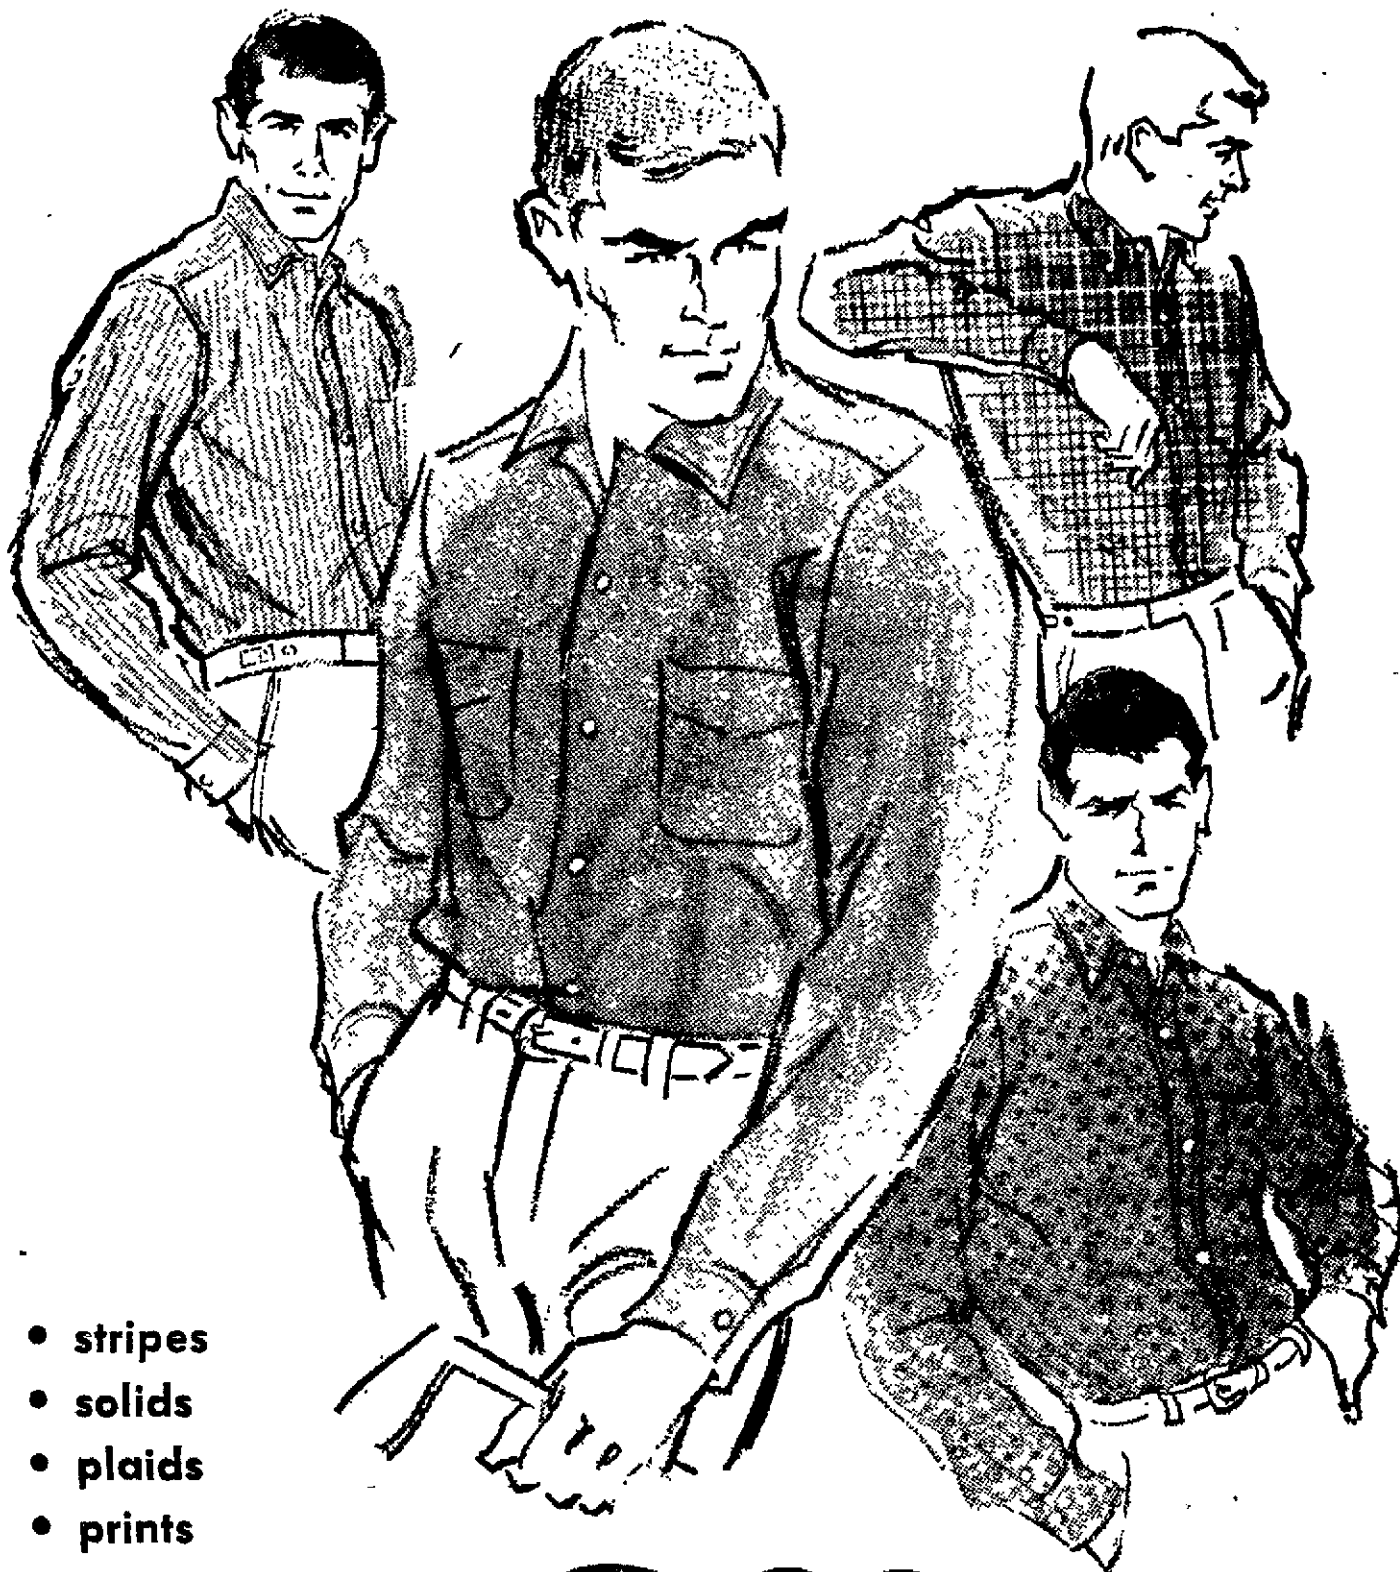

California received official recognition as the nation's first state in population — 18,084,000, including military personnel stationed there.
